Eastland Named Senate Judiciary Group Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 2—UP—The Senate, in accordance with its "seniority" tradition, approved Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) as judiciary committee chairman Friday over sharp protests by two Democrats. They objected to Eastland's pro-segregation views.

Simultaneously Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.) demanded that President Eisenhower call a White House racial conference at once "to keep Negroes from being shot" in the South. The Negro congressman accused leaders of both parties of "expediency" and "cheap partisan politics" on the race issue.

Eastland, an outspoken foe of the Supreme Court's school integration decision, was confirmed as judiciary chairman by voice vote with only a few "nags" heard. The post was left vacant by the death last week of Sen. Harley M. Kilgore (D-W.Va.).

Although Eastland as senior committee Democrat normally would have moved automatically into the chairmanship, Sens. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) angrily challenged his right to the post because of the Mississippi Democrat's repeated attacks on the Supreme Court's school integration decision.

Lehman has been a member of the board of directors of the NAACP for 20 years, an aide said. Morse was identified by NAACP headquarters as holding the honorary post of vice president. An aide said that while Morse formerly was in the board of directors of the organization, he is not now.

Lehman, in a Senate speech, called Eastland a "symbol of racism" and accused him of association with organizations engaging in "wholly un-American activities." He referred to Eastland's "leadership role with the so-called white citizens councils" in the South.

Both Lehman and Morse said Eastland could not be an impartial chairman of the judiciary committee, which handles affairs involving the courts, because of his outspoken oppisition to the Supreme Court's school ruling.

Eastland's Mississippi colleague, Democratic Sen. John Stennis, defended his nomination to the chairmanship. He said Morse and Lehman had not produced a "scintilla of evidence" casting "any flavor of suspicion" on Eastland's fitness for the post.

Sen. Alben W. Barkley, (D-Ky.), former vice president, told the Senate it was "unfortunate and regrettable" that any senator should "urge our people to nullify, disregard or flout" Supreme Court decisions.

But he defended Eastland's promotion to chairman on the basis of the seniority tradition.

Neff Inquiry

Senate Reverses Itself; Votes To Continue Probe

WASHINGTON, March 2—UP— Senate investigators, confronted with directly conflicting testimony, reversed themselves Friday and decided to extend their inquiry into the activities of oil lobbyist John M. Neff.

A special Senate committee investigating Neff's $2,500 "campaign contribution" to Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) announced shortly after noon that it had "ended" its hearings. But several hours later it suddenly decided to reopen them Monday.

The committee said the reopened hearings would deal largely with the "credibility" of witnesses who gave conflicting testimony on an alleged $2,500 contribution to another Midwest senator—Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa).

Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa banker and Republican national committeeman, testified that Neff made the Hickenlooper offer during two visits to his office. Neff has said he visited Goodwin only once

Pineau Sharply Critical Of West's Policy With Reds

PARIS, March 2—UP—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau declared Friday he is in "profound disagreement" with present western foreign policy.

Pineau criticized the United States and Great Britain for "enormous errors" in foreign policy in one of the frankest speeches heard recently from a French foreign minister.

At the same time, other government quarters announced that Pineau and Premier Guy Mollet will go to Moscow in May for top-level talks with leaders of the Soviet Union.

Pineau, a slight and witty diplomat who writes fairy tales as a hobby, threw something of a bombshell in a lunch speech before the Anglo-American Press Association.

"If the West does not make a major effort to show that it is the champion of peace we will be beaten on the field of propaganda and politics" Pineau said.

He reproached the United States for its policy in Indo-China, criticized Britain for failing to consult with France in the Middle East question, and complained that "there is not really any common U. S.-British-French world policy."

GOP Farm Policy On Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP) — Sen. Clements (D-Ky) said today the basic theory underlying the Eisenhower administration's farm program is that "there are too many farmers."

Asserting the Agriculture Department has tried "to reduce the surplus of farmers by reducing the prospects of making a living income from farming," Clements said:

"From the outset, this administration has looked upon the farmer as public enemy No. 1 and it is certainly not surprising that this feeling is reciprocated."

Clements, the assistant Democratic floor leader, addressed the Senate in debate on general farm legislation due to be voted on next Thursday. He urged a return to 90 per cent support prices in place of the lower, variable support system enacted under the present administration.

Clements said the administration favors farms being run as "big business" and he said the process of eliminating the small, independent farmer can best be hastened by flexible price supports, the kind now in effect.

Million Bales Of Surplus Cotton Is Sold Since Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)— The Agriculture Department reported today it has sold the last of a million-bale lot of low grade cotton which it tossed on the export market at cut rate prices Jan. 1.

It reported that 109,578 bales were sold on the basis of bids opened Tuesday.

Before this offer was made, little surplus cotton was moving abroad because the government's sale price was considerably higher than prices prevailing for foreign cotton in world markets.

In a move to increase overseas shipments, the department offered a million bales of the lower grades at competitive bid prices. This cotton has been sold at prices ranging from about 6 to 9 cents per pound lower than prices prevailing in domestic markets.

Disc Jockey Fails To Hit Chicago In 'Rebel Flag' Raid

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—A Mississippi disc jockey made a "retaliation" plane raid on Chicago's Loop today, but apparently didn't even score a near miss.

Lookouts in the air, atop skyscrapers and at Civil Defense ground observation posts reported an "all clear" without spotting any of the 25,000 paper Confederate battle flags he intended to shower on the city.

Allan English, radio entertainer at WSUH, Oxford, Miss., flew in from Memphis with his "bomb load" of paper flags at 1 p.m. He refueled at Meigs Fields on Chicago's lake front and said he would drop the flags on his way home.

The stunt was in reply to an earlier flight arranged by Al Benson, Chicago Negro platter spinner who was born in Mississippi. Benson hired pilots to drop copies of the U.S. Constitution over Mississippi Feb. 22 as a protest against his native state's segregation policies.

English, garbed as a "rebel colonel" with black hat, black string bow tie and a black coat with swallow tails, greeted visitors at the airport with a "Howdy, y'all."

Journalist White, Rep. Passman To Address Meeting

David H. White, noted journalist and lecturer, and Fifth District Congressman Otto Passman will be principal speakers on the annual state B'nai B'rith program, slated to begin at 9 a.m. Sunday on the Frances Hotel roof.

Three hundred or more people are expected to attend the convention, Glazer said.

He spent a number of years in the Orient as an International News Service correspondent and has traveled extensively in the Far East and the Near East as foreign correspondent.

Leo Zipkes, in charge of convention arrangements, said that B'nai B'rith is a Jewish service organization, dedicated to serve the individual, the family, the country and humanity. It was organized in 1843 and has become a mainstream of Jewish life in America.

Mississippi Asks Demos To Revive Two-Thirds Rule

JACKSON, Miss., March 2 (AP)— The Mississippi Legislature today asked the Democratic party to restore its old rule and require a two-thirds vote to nominate a presidential candidate in the August convention.

The legislative action came when the House adopted a concurrent resolution already approved by the Senate.

Southern states lost much of their power when the two-thirds vote required for presidential nominations was dropped in favor of a simple majority vote.

The resolution said the Republican party had taken over the presidency because of a lack of unity among Democrats and that "such unity is best obtained and perpetuated" by use of the two thirds rule.

ICC Okays Rail Freight Rate Hike Of Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON, March 2 —UP —The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday granted a 6 per cent increase in most railroad freight rates to help the carriers make up some $500 million in increased operating costs.

The increase will become effective next Wednesday. The commission, needing requests from hard-pressed farmers, limited to 5 per cent the increase in rates for hauling certain farm commodities.

The railroads had sought a general 7 per cent freight rate increase. Railroad attorneys estimated the 6 per cent hike would boost the carriers annual revenues by some $423 million a year.

The ICC ruled that line - haul rates on coal and coke in carload lots may be boosted by 6 per cent to a maximum of 15 cents a net ton.

Carload rates on grain, its products and by-products, livestock and fresh meats as well as packinghouse products, were limited to a 5 per cent increase.

Certain commodities were held to a maximum increase of 6 cents per 100 pounds. They included fresh fruits and lumber. The fruits included citrus and vegetables, melons, edible nuts, and canned or preserved foods.

'Put Own House In Order'

Stevenson Chides North For 'Casting Stones' At Alabama On Race Issue

MINNEAPOLIS, March 2—UP—Adlai E. Stevenson said Friday the nation should put its own house in order on the racial issue "before we cast a stone at Alabama."

Stevenson, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, opened a five-day campaign tour in Minnesota with a speech to a University of Minnesota convocation.

He said "it is clearly a matter of grave national concern when a girl in Alabama is denied her constitutional rights by mob violence or by subterfuge, or when murder goes unpunished in Mississippi."

But Stevenson said American citizens have been denied "peaceful occupancy of their homes in my own state of Illinois" and to some extent racial discrimination "is still a fact of life for the great majority of Negroes" outside the South.

He said America must recognize that the "full accommodation of our Negro citizens in this society of ours is in truth an American dilemma, which demands the best that is in us."

Stevenson came to Minnesota from an eastern trip where he met the issue of President Eisenhower's health headon, declaring that it apparently was Mr. Eisenhower's intention to be a permanent "part-time" President.

The 1952 Democratic nominee was scheduled for an extensive stumping tour of the state in his bid for votes in the March 20 Minnesota primary. The election will be his first direct clash with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Stevenson told Minnesota students the nation can take "great pride" in gains made by minority groups thus far, which he said were made without violence and largely by "judicial interpretation of the Constitution."

"Yet this very progress now poses a new threat to the constitutional processes—and the world watches with closer attention," he said.

La. Employment Chief Defies Own Advisory Group

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (AP)— Gov. Robert Kennon's employment chief today defied his own advisory council by refusing to let it see a federal letter dealing with proposals to grant higher jobless pay while getting tougher with tax dodging employers.

The federal recommendations for Louisiana legislation were made public, but the council demanded the right under the public records act, to see a federal official's letter on the questions.

Employment Security Administrator Richard Walker, a Kennon appointee, insisted the letter he held from Ed McDonald, Dallas regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Employment Security, was personal "and it might say things he didn't intend to make public."

Rebuffed, the employment security advisory council of business, labor and public representatives adopted motions that Walker, at least a week before the next meeting April 27:

1. Make public the full federal report on the recent investigation of the employment security office and laxness over the years in collecting payroll taxes from delinquent employers.

2. Let members see McDonald's letter, withheld by Walker, describing the recommendations for Louisiana legislation.

3. Instruct his department attorney, L. D. Dunbar, who also had refused a council request for a legal opinion on whether the letter should be made public under the public records act, to provide that legal opinion.

Dunbar, questioned by member Victor Bussie, Shreveport, snapped he wouldn't give "a curbstone opinion because it wouldn't be worth a nickel."

Bussie reminded Dunbar he

Registrars Told La. Welfare Dept. Might Be Waning

"Someday we should be able to get rid of the welfare department," A. P. Tugwell, state treasurer, told about 100 members of Louisiana Registrars of Voters Association Friday night at their annual convention banquet.

Tugwell, one of two speakers before the group last night, made the remark in connection with his main topic, social security.

The other principal speaker was David Reynaud, chairman of the state board of registrars.

Tugwell's aim was to explain the social security program generally to the assembled registrars of voters because they will hold a referendum on May 7 to decide if they want to enter the program for retirement insurance as a group.

"If your decision is 'yes' you will be covered back to January 1, 1955," the speaker told his audience.

He explained that since the first social security program was effected in 1935, there have been many changes. He said that it was practically re-written in 1955 and now gives public employes a better chance.

Following is an explanation of the more difficult clues encountered in last week's puzzle:

4. To "turn on you" implies a close proximity to the animal, thus favoring HURT. While HUNTING a beast you may well be too far away from it for it to "turn on you".

6. To POTTER has nothing to do with being physically weak. TOTTER, therefore, is preferred.

7. "DELIBERATE", in this usage, applies to something that is reprehensible if deliberate, but forgivable if an accident, from which viewpoint TRIP is clearly more apt than TRAP.

Nope, police were just getting a group picture made.

Mississippi Asks Demos To Revive Two-Thirds Rule

JACKSON, Miss., March 2 (AP)—The Mississippi Legislature today asked the Democratic party to restore its old rule and require a two-thirds vote to nominate a presidential candidate in the August convention.

The legislative action came when the House adopted a concurrent resolution already approved by the Senate.

Southern states lost much of their power when the two-thirds vote required for presidential nominations was dropped in favor of a simple majority vote.

The resolution said the Republican party had taken over the presidency because of a lack of unity among Democrats and that "such unity is best obtained and perpetuated" by use of the two-thirds rule.

ICC Okays Rail Freight Rate Hike Of Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON, March 2 —UP —The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday granted a 6 per cent increase in most railroad freight rates to help the carriers make up some $500 million in increased operating costs.

The increase will become effective next Wednesday. The commission, needing requests from hard-pressed farmers, limited to 5 per cent the increase in rates for hauling certain farm commodities.

The railroads had sought a general 7 per cent freight rate increase. Railroad attorneys estimated the 6 per cent hike would boost the carriers annual revenues by some $423 mililon a year.

The ICC ruled that line - haul rates on coal and coke in carload lots may be boosted by 6 per cent to a maximum of 15 cents a net ton.

Carload rates on grain, its products and by-products, livestock and fresh meats as well as packinghouse products, were limited to a 5 per cent increase.

Certain commodities were held to a maximum increase of 6 cents per 100 pounds. They included fresh fruits and lumber. The fruits included citrus and vegetables, melons, edible nuts, and canned or preserved foods.

Lea was convicted in the fatal shooting of Tulane student Patrick McKenna during a holdup attempt in September, 1954.

Stevenson Chides North For 'Casting Stones' At Alabama On Race Issue

MINNEAPOLIS, March 2—UP—Adlai E. Stevenson said Friday the nation should put its own house in order on the racial issue "before we cast a stone at Alabama."

Stevenson, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, opened a five-day campaign tour in Minnesota with a speech to a University of Minnesota convocation.

He said "it is clearly a matter of grave national concern when a girl in Alabama is denied her constitutional rights by mob violence or by subterfuge, or when murder goes unpunished in Mississippi."

But Stevenson said American citizens have been denied "peaceful occupancy of their homes in my own state of Illinois" and to some extent racial discrimination "is still a fact of life for the great majority of Negroes" outside the South.

He said America must recognize that the "full accommodation of our Negro citizens in this society of ours is in truth an American dilemma, which demands the best that is in us."

Stevenson came to Minnesota from an eastern trip where he met the issue of President Eisenhower's health headon, declaring that it apparently was Mr. Eisenhower's intention to be a permanent "part-time" President.

The 1952 Democratic nominee was scheduled for an extensive stumping tour of the state in his bid for votes in the March 20 Minnesota primary. The election will be his first direct clash with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Stevenson told Minnesota students the nation can take "great pride" in gains made by minority groups thus far, which he said were made without violence and largely by "judicial interpretation of the Constitution."

"Yet this very progress now poses a new threat to the constitutional processes—and the world watches with closer attention," he said.

La. Employment Chief Defies Own Advisory Group

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon's employment chief today defied his own advisory council by refusing to let it see a federal letter dealing with proposals to grant higher jobless pay while getting tougher with tax dodging employers.

The federal recommendations for Louisiana legislation were made public, but the council demanded the right under the public records act, to see a federal official's letter on the questions.

Employment Security Administrator Richard Walker, a Kennon appointee, insisted the letter he held from Ed McDonald, Dallas regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Employment Security, was personal "and it might say things he didn't intend to make public."

Rebuffed, the employment security advisory council of business, labor and other public representatives adopted motions that Walker, at least a week before the next meeting April 27:

1. Make public the full federal report on the recent investigation of the employment security office and laxness over the years in collecting payroll taxes from delinquent employers.

2. Let members see McDonald's letter, withheld by Walker, describing the recommendations for Louisiana legislation.

3. Instruct his department attorney, L. D. Dunbar, who also had refused a council request for a legal opinion on whether the letter should be made public under the public records act, to provide that legal opinion.

Dunbar, questioned by member Victor Bussie, Shreveport, snapped he wouldn't give "a curbstone opinion because it wouldn't be worth a nickel."

Bussie reminded Dunbar he

Suit Charges Lucy Woman Employed To Press Action

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 2—UP—Autherine Lucy, four other Negroes and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were sued for damages totaling $4 million Friday by four persons accused by Lucy of conspiring to keep her from attending the University of Alabama.

The suits charged that Lucy had no "real desire" to go to the university and was being paid $300 a month" by the NAACP.

The suits also charged that another defendant, Polly Ann Hudson, who like Lucy sought to enter the university, was "a woman of loose morals and unfit to associate with the students."

They said Hudson was "with child although not a married woman."

Hudson, formerly Polly Ann Myers, was rejected for admission to the university on grounds of "personal morals." She

Registrars Told La. Welfare Dept. Might Be Waning

"Someday we should be able to get rid of the welfare department," A. P. Tugwell, state treasurer, told about 100 members of Louisiana Registrars of Voters Association Friday night at their annual convention banquet.

Tugwell, one of two speakers before the group last night, made the remark in connection with his main topic, social security.

The other principal speaker was David Reynaud, chairman of the state board of registrars.

Tugwell's aim was to explain the social security program generally to the assembled registrars of voters because they will hold a referendum on May 7 to decide if they want to enter the program for retirement insurance as a group.

"If your decision is 'yes' you will be covered back to January 1, 1955," the speaker told his audience.

He explained that since the first social security program was effected in 1935, there have been many changes. He said that it was practically re-written in 1955 and now gives public employes a better chance.

An example he gave the registrars was that if one of them earns $1,200 annually, he will pay $1,008 into the retirement program over a 10 year period.

"If you are one of the nine in Louisiana who earn $4,200, you will, upon drawing your retirement pension, get it all back in only 10 months," Tugwell said, and added, "This retirement insurance certainly is a bargain. It is the best I've ever heard of."

He said that if the registrars decide in May to adopt the program, only he, and not the legislature, would have to pass on it, before it goes to federal authorities.

The speaker told his listeners that in the last 20 years, nine out of 10 people have come under the social security program.

Reynaud, who publishes a weekly newspaper in Lutcher, St. James parish, said that 28 of the 64 parishes have adopted permanent voter registration, and that he believes all the parishes will eventually adopt it.

In the 28 permanent registration parishes, he said, there are 706,281 voters registered. Over the state there are 333,912 voters still under periodic registration.

"Most of Louisiana's registrars of voters are sadly underpaid, for the amount of physical labor and the amount of knowledge necessary for a good job," Reynaud said.

He added, "At election time, the registrar of voters is the most important job in the court house."

Reynaud stressed the need for clarification of antiquated registration laws in Louisiana and said that many of them need to be rewritten.

Further discussion of the retirement insurance system is planned for the group today when W. E. Graves, social security counselor, speaks. The business session gets under way at 9 a.m. in the Virginia Hotel ballroom, site of last night's banquet.

The group will elect officers for the next year today.

Louisiana

worked for the taxpayers of Louisiana:

"I take orders from Walker," Dunbar said.

Walker did turn over an outline of federal recommendations on unemployment pay and payroll tax collections, which the council will consider in detail during its April meeting, just before the 1956 Legislature convenes.

The federal suggestions grew partly out of a recent extensive federal probe of employment security in Louisiana. Federal agents critized the federal aid state agency, during operations under both former Gov. Robert Kennon's administration and the administration of former Gov. Earl Long, now the next governor.

The initial probe report complained of laxness in collecting payroll taxes, hampering jobless payments, and criticized a private consulting service which had been former for employers under direction of the previous state administrator, J. Hadley Heard.

The new federal proposals for state legislation called for such strict steps as giving the administrator the right to seize an employer's property when too slow about payroll taxes and authority to place his tax at the 2.7 per cent maximum rate.

In connection with unemployment benefits, Louisiana now pays a maximum $25 a week for 20 weeks. Three federal suggestions:

1. A maximum $35 weekly for 26 weeks.

2. The Utah plan, granting jobless pay at one-half the worker's former average weekly earnings.

3. Extend the present maximum coverage to 26 weeks, if other steps aren't possible.

The federal report reminded that President Eisenhower has suggested the 26-week period and one-half weekly earnings, which follows the wage level automatically. "The Louisiana law falls short of this goal," the report added.

The council also demanded to see Walker's letter of Nov. 3, to McDonald, in which Walker discussed plans, and a letter sent all state administrators dealing with "major objectives of federal policy."

The federal bureau said Louisiana disqualification p r o v i s ions, which determine eligibility for jobless benefits, were "among the most restrictive in the nation."

"Provisions for cancelling or reducing benefit rights are directly contrary to purposes of the program."

Even when times are good, the report continued, "such provisions inevitably hit hardest at claimants who had the most difficulty in finding employment."

Concerning delinquent employers, the report said "administration of the Louisiana employment security law has been seriously hampered by the failure of employers to file required wage and contribution reports and to pay contributions. There is great need for strengthening the law."

Federal recommendations:

1. A flat penalty for employers who fail to file required reports.

2. Wider use of the subpoena to require an employer to produce his books and records.

3. Hold back granting reduced payroll tax rates, granted for employment stability, to delinquent employers, said "we are going through each account to determine which ones can be collected.

"We believe the most effective way to reach the delinquents is for the delinquent accounts to reach our legal department promptly, so we can act while the employers are still in business or still in the state."

Bussie won council approval for his suggestion that Walker draft legislation forcing out-of-state contractors or other foreign agencies, doing business in Louisiana, to put up bond assuring protection for payroll taxes.

Dunbar reported some delinquencies hard to settle involved out-of-state contractors who have departed.

Chamber Movement Will Meet In West Monroe

A. Olin Evans, chairman of a movement to organize a West Monroe chamber of commerce, yesterday reminded all interested parties that a meeting to discuss advantages of a chamber in West Monroe will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the city hall court room.

He said a large number of people in West Monroe businesses and professions have been mailed invitations to attend the meeting and participate in discussions.

He urged that all those interested in the organization study the following advantageous points regarding a future chamber in West Monroe:

Publicity, and advertising the community; protect members and city residents from fraudulent solicitations; sponsor provisions of public and private funds for new hospital facilities in West Monroe; assist in industrial development; encourage the construction of high school athletic facilities; and to promote local retail sales.

Evans said these items were not intended to cover all the possibilities, and that suggestions will be welcomed.

He said that a local chamber of commerce might be broadly defined as: people, working together, to make their community a better place in which to live and make a living.

The federal suggestions grew partly out of a recent extensive federal probe of employment security in Louisiana. Federal agents critized the federal aid state agency, during operations under both former Gov. Robert Kennon's administration and the administration of former Gov. Earl Long, now the next governor.

The initial probe report complained of laxness in collecting payroll taxes, hampering jobless payments, and criticized a private consulting service which had been former for employers under direction of the previous state administrator, J. Hadley Heard.

The new federal proposals for state legislation called for such strict steps as giving the administrator the right to seize an employer's property when too slow about payroll taxes and authority to place his tax at the 2.7 per cent maximum rate.

In connection with unemployment benefits, Louisiana now pays a maximum $25 a week for 20 weeks. Three federal suggestions:

1. A maximum $35 weekly for 26 weeks.

2. The Utah plan, granting jobless pay at one-half the worker's former average weekly earnings.

3. Extend the present maximum coverage to 26 weeks, if other steps aren't possible.

The federal report reminded that President Eisenhower has suggested the 26-week period and one-half weekly earnings, which follows the wage level automatically. "The Louisiana law falls short of this goal," the report added.

The council also demanded to see Walker's letter of Nov. 3, to McDonald, in which Walker discussed plans, and a letter sent all state administrators dealing with "major objectives of federal policy."

The federal bureau said Louisiana disqualification provisions, which determine eligibility for jobless benefits, were "among the most restrictive in the nation."

"Provisions for cancelling or reducing benefit rights are directly contrary to purposes of the program."

Even when times are good, the report continued, "such provisions inevitably hit hardest at claimants who had the most difficulty in finding employment."

Concerning delinquent employers, the report said "administration of the Louisiana employment security law has been seriously hampered by the failure of employers to file required wage and contribution reports and to pay contributions. There is great need for strengthening the law."

Federal recommendations:

1. A flat penalty for employers who fail to file required reports.

2. Wider use of the subpoena to require an employer to produce his books and records.

3. Hold back granting reduced payroll tax rates, granted for employment stability, to delinquent employers, said "we are going through each account to determine which ones can be collected.

"We believe the most effective way to reach the delinquents is for the delinquent accounts to reach our legal department promptly, so we can act while the employers are still in business or still in the state."

Bussie won council approval for his suggestion that Walker draft legislation forcing out-of-state contractors or other foreign agencies, doing business in Louisiana, to put up bond assuring protection for payroll taxes.

Dunbar reported some delinquencies hard to settle involved out-of-state contractors who have departed.

Chamber Movement Will Meet In West Monroe

A. Olin Evans, chairman of a movement to organize a West Monroe chamber of commerce, yesterday reminded all interested parties that a meeting to discuss advantages of a chamber in West Monroe will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the city hall court room.

He said a large number of people in West Monroe businesses and professions have been mailed invitations to attend the meeting and participate in discussions.

He urged that all those interested in the organization study the following advantageous points regarding a future chamber in West Monroe:

Publicity, and advertising the community; protect members and city residents from fraudulent solicitations; sponsor provisions of public and private funds for new hospital facilities in West Monroe; assist in industrial development; encourage the construction of high school athletic facilities; and to promote local retail sales.

Evans said these items were not intended to cover all the possibilities, and that suggestions will be welcomed.

He said that a local chamber of commerce might be broadly defined as: people, working together, to make their community a better place in which to live and make a living.

Puzzle Solution

is a bit LAME may be no fault of the reporter's - it may be due to the lack of news value and human interest in the story he has been sent to cover.

16. It is certainly important to the dressmaker that the garments she makes be SEEN in a good light, meaning, of course, approved by the customer. Only in this way will they sell. SEWN is not as apt as and "important" is hardly the expression you would use in referring to the proper light in which to SEW.

17. DROP is best, grammatically speaking, as a bottle cannot DRIP. It is the contents of the bottle that would DRIP.

19. A man gets "A CERTAIN satisfaction" from relatively small or incidental things rather than from complete success, which may well give GREAT satisfaction. Thus to TAIL a criminal is a minor thing incidental to the major or final job which is to NAIL him which would give great satisfaction indeed, not just a "certain satisfaction". JAIL is not favored any more than Nail.

21. ALMS is an apt answer indicating the absence of dire poverty. Eliminating all ARMS (implements of war) might cause widespread unemployment and certainly would probably promote a feeling of insecurity.

23. Tennis professionals would naturally be INTERESTED in tennis NEWS, but may well simply take the NETS for granted.

25. THE is known as the "definite article" in grammar and certainly aptly fits the clue's description of one of the most-used articles in the "language". It is obviously much more apt than TEE which is only used by a certain group, or TIE, an article which actually is "worn" not "used."

CLUES DOWN:

1. COUNCIL, undoubtedly; can the hat ALONE be COMICAL? Surely nobody would laugh at just a hat. It is what goes with it also.

2. STORM may BUILD up spontaneously. A STORY does not build itself, it has to BE built up.

4. HIT NUMBERS, or HOT MUSIC. "HOT" is a style of playing, rather than a type of number. Practically ANY number can be given a "HOT" interpretation.

10. You'll find a TIP at the end of any match. In sport you cannot have a TIE in all matches. A billards match, for example, cannot end in a TIE. Thus "any" would not apply.

16. SPADE is more apt than SPACE. Lack of a SPADE can mean much harder work using some other inferior instrument. Lack of SPACE can easily mean that the job can't be done AT ALL.

Damage Light In Stadium Fire

There was more excitement than fire in the stadium at Brown Field on the campus of Northeast Louisiana State College last night.

The fire, damaging only the ceiling and part of the walls in one rest room in the north end of the structure, started as the result of a broken gas line near a burning heater, according to firemen.

No estimate of the damage was available last night.

The fire was confined to the one room and was quickly controlled.

Two Northeast athletes, Harvey Ferguson, who was shaving, and Nathan Zemeto, were in the room at the time the escaping gas was ignited about 10:30 o'clock.

The concrete and steel stadium also houses most of Northeast's athletes, but the fire reached none of their rooms.

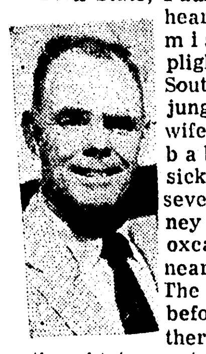
The Reverend Mr. Pilot

By Sidney Fields
Guideposts Feature Writer

While serving as the minister of a comfortable little church in upper New York State, Paul F. Robinson heard of a young missionary's plight in the South American jungles, when his wife and newborn baby became sick, he began a seven-day journey by canoe and oxcart to the nearest hospital. The mother died before they got there.



One thought tormented Robinson:

"If they had had a plane, the journey would have taken an hour, and she would be alive today."

He was an active home supporter of missionaries, but he now knew they needed more than help or pity. He asked for and was given a missionary assignment to a place he selected himself, deep in central Brazil, inaccessible except by plane. His dream was to be a missionary pilot, and to prepare himself for it, he began learning to fly. He was 30 then.

Three days after his first solo flight, came Pearl Harbor. All civilian pilots and planes were grounded. The door to his dream closed. But Robinson was fiercely determined to be sitting on the doorstep as soon as it opened.

He joined the Civil Air Patrol, carried on his pastoral duties, and by war's end had both a commercial pilot's and flight instructor's license.

"But at war's end I had reached the ripe age of 35," he says, " and was told I was too old to pack myself and a family off to the wilds and start learning a primitive language well enough to preach it."

But if he couldn't go himself, perhaps training many others to go was even better. He's a lean, energetic, six-footer, with clear blue eyes, a crew haircut, and steel in his will.

He blueprinted a flight training program for missionaries and sent it to the inter-denominational Moody Bible Institute in Chicago just to get their advice.

Much to his surprise, he was invited by Moody's Board of Trustees to present his plan in person at their next meeting.

"I prayed that they wouldn't throw me out," he recalls. "But after I was finished, one board member requested the privilege of buying the first two training planes for the projected school."

A few weeks after the first plane was delivered in the summer of 1946, Paul Robinson, stood before three students and opened the first class of Missionary Aviation Training with a prayer. Every class has since been opened the same way.

For the first two years students got no more than 50 hours of flying and were taught to be both missionaries and pilots at the same time. In 1948 the Reverend Mr. Robinson flying and living among the missionaries of Central and South America, learned first-hand about the harsh realities of their lives.

"They have to scratch for food for their families," he says, "and build their own houses, and often live among hostile natives. They could not be pilots, navigators, mechanics, radio men, and missionaries, too."

So in 1949 he began training pilots and radio communications experts in an intensive four-year course. They were given theological training, too, but were prepared primarily to serve the working missionaries as pilots, just as medical missionaries serve them only as doctors.

The Missionary Aviation School is now at Wooddale Airport, 20 miles from Chicago's Loop. Fully approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, it has two runways, 12 training planes, eight top instructors, four hangars, and modern flight, engine repair, and radio schools. Of 200 yearly applicants from all over the country and every denomination, only 12 are accepted for the four-year pilot-mechanic course, another 12 for the radio course.

After graduation they take off with their two or four-place planes to establish a base, often serving as many as a dozen missionaries in one area and bringing them everything from watermelons and machinery to Bibles and medicine. And thus the missionary is left free to devote his full time and energy to his missionary tasks.

Deep in the Ecuadorian jungle a missionary was working a power saw one day when his five-year-old son fell against it, almost severing his leg. The closest point of civilization was seven days away — by trail and over water.

Quickly the father put a tourniquet around his son's thigh, then radioed the airplane base.

The pilot was winging his way home from another mission station, but his wife took the call, and in a matter of seconds changed the pilot's course and had him streaking toward the injured boy.

Two hours after the accident the boy was undergoing surgery. He could never have survived the treacherous seven-day trip through the jungle.

Robinson never did get to be a flying missionary himself.

"The most rewarding thing about it," he says, "is that it follows the great commission of our Lord: 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.' Many tribes and tongues and people, who could be reached in no other way, are now hearing the word of God. Souls who have as much right as you or I to hear the Way of Life."

Tomorrow — Red Barber, ace sports broadcaster, tells how he lost the habit of prayer and then regained it at two crises in his life.

Property Owners To Vote Tuesday

RAYVILLE, March 2 —(Special) —Property owners in Rayville will vote on a bond issue Tuesday for approval of an additional $40,000 for completion of the M. and S. Garment Factory.

Officials said that the additional bond issue was necessary due to an error in estimating costs. The original bond issue had allowed $110,000 for factory construction, but the lowest bid received for the construction job came to approximately $150,000.

Work has already begun at the factory site and the additional $40,000 sought in the bond issue will be required in order that the building can be completed according to contract specifications, officials said.

Polls will open at a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

69 Slot Machines Destroyed By Police

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (AP)—State police destroyed 69 slot machines today seized in St. Tammany Parish in 1953 during the height of police raids directed by former Supt Francis Grevemberg.

The stored machines, console-type racehorse devices, were believed originally worth nearly $100,000.

Public Safety Director Chester Owen ordered the stored machines broken up.

Owners had contended in a court contest that the machines were not slot machines, but amusement devices. The fight went to the Supreme Court, which upheld the right of the state to destroy slot machines under the law.

The Tallulah Jaycees are proceeding with plans for the Teen-Age RODE-EO in April, and the "Come to Church project" in May. It is hoped that both these activities will help to combat juvenile delinquency. George Wall, of Tallulah, has made available the use of the Madison Cub to the Tallulah Jaycees, according to Willing. It was stated by Willing that the clubhouse will be redecorated, and will be used for the purpose of conducting recreational activities for teen-agers. This project will be under the supervision of the Tallulah Jaycees.

The Quest For Knowledge

Man's quest for knowledge never ends. Recently it carried intrepid British and Himalayan explorers to the highest point on earth. Now it seeks to probe the deepest chasms of the oceans, vast canyons further below sea level than towering Mount Everest is above.

A new camera invented and designed by Dr. Harold E. Edgerton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology withstands water pressure of 17,000 pounds to the square inch; so that it would not be caved in by water pressure even at the fabulous Challenger Depth, off Guam—nearly 36,000 feet below sea level.

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, president of the National Geographical Society, believes that the new equipment, including a "weightless" nylon cable, may probe the uttermost depths of the earth and photograph whatever life, if any, is present there.

Scientists know there are definite limitations to life flourishing in the air above; the birds, the eagles, since all are oxygen-breathing organisms; and our high-flying jet planes and rockets penetrate to regions where no animate creature is domiciled, or has a course of flight.

There may be depths in the ocean unsuited to living organisms, and if there are it is perhaps important to ascertain these, so that our scientists might be able to establish definitely a vertical zone of life on earth—where it begins, and where it ends.

It must be a very narrow zone, a few miles up or down, an almost infinitesimal fringe on the surface of a planet that of itself is a mere pinprick in the great galaxies of the heavens—utterly obscure in the vast marching cosmic scheme, as astronomers map the universe.

Yet here on this pinprick, Earth, we have a phenomena—man, with intelligence, peering at the stars and the galaxies through his own instruments, measuring, computing, weighing, judging, sifting and sorting, eternally hungry for knowledge.

The emergence of man as an intelligent being is equally important with the emergence of the universe; and equally hard to explain.

We, as men, believe we are rational beings in a rational universe; and that is the human goal, but how far short does it fall in its applications?

The quest for knowledge is never-ending, and the desire for individual freedom is eternal and unconquerable; and no tyranny over man's conscience and soul, such as the brutal tyranny of the Soviets and their satellites can last for long; and no theory of man's enslavement to the State, such as Marxism, can hold water or meet the tests of time; and no misguided "liberal" carrying a flag for Marxism can emerge as a prophet, since the very essence of Marxism is based on provincial ignorance, now completely outmoded.

Human life on earth began, perhaps, as man the individual and the family.

The destinies of the human race are dependent upon man as the individual and the family.

Man the individual tends to worship God as a supreme being. He does not tend to worship the State.

Today, all mankind has the opportunity to choose between worship of God and subjection to the State, as a modern and Marxist-inspired deity.

Mankind has the choice to decide between a rigerously inspired concept of humanity or a brutalitarian concept, as embodied by the Marxists, based on "economic determinism"—an utterly unproved and probably false and phoney doctrine.

Oil Dispute Suspended

Independent petroleum producers have not given up the hope of getting oil imports cut back, but current statistics are against them.

A year ago a presidential committee recommended that imports of petroleum and products be cut back to the 1954 volume of about 16 per cent of domestic production. Most importers promised to do so. But petroleum consumption in this country increased last year by 8 per cent. Domestic production increased only 7 per cent.

So imports of crude increased to 18 per cent of domestic production and are being absorbed by booming domestic demand.

Last year domestic crude output averaged 6,777,000 barrels per day and imports reached 1,240,000 barrels per day. In view of the troubled condition of the Middle East, where huge oil supplies for import are situated, the government would hesitate to cut off any U.S. markets lest it inflame the Asians.

But if imports press in seriously on domestic supplies, there will be no choice. The President is required by law to act when it is clear that imports imperil an industry vital to the national defense. In the meantime it is well that rising oil demand in this country is supporting the domestic industry and a sizable import volume as well.

Symington's Probe

Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri Democrat, and a few others continue to criticize what they describe as the laggardiness of the United States in air power, including guided missiles. Symington is a former Secretary of the Air Force.

Symington's criticism is that by inference the public is given to understand that American air power is up to snuff. The Missourian says that it is not and that sufficient steps are not being taken to make it so.

This is an awkward situation. These in authority at Washington can scarcely spell out what the nation has and what its productive system will pour out in the future.

The upcoming Senate investigation, which Symington heads, is for the asserted purpose of determining whether the U. S. Air Force is strong enough. But even after it is concluded the public can not expect to be fully informed on the status. The details of American aviation assets properly will be held as secrets.

While the President is Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces, it is within the province of Congress to check up on his policies. But revelation of this country's and other nations' defenses awaits the time when there is general agreement on international inspection. And it appears that isn't going to happen soon.

Boycotts

During the many years that I lived in the Orient, I witnessed several serious mass boycotts, quiet passive resistance movements on the part of a whole people to accomplish a political objective. The most complete effort of this type that I experienced was the Students' Movement in China in 1919 when everything shut down, even food shops, restaurants and brothels. The startling fact about this movement was that it was spontaneous, without any outstanding leadership.

I studied these movements closely and I found that they always succeeded in their immediate objectives, although subsequently politicians found ways of circumventing their consequences. For instance the 1919 Students' Movement was called to prevent China from signing the Paris Treaty. China did not sign that treaty. As a matter of fact, it was the solid victory of the students in 1919 which gave impetus to the communist movement in China. Most of the present important communist leaders were participants in that movement.

The reason that boycott movements are successful is very simple: while it is possible to lead a horse to water, it is impossible to make him drink. When it becomes socially improper to buy from certain stores or to use certain products, people do not do what is socially improper. Jail sentences, even the killing of a few leaders never frightened people into buying a boycotted product.

Gandhi learned passive resistance from the Chinese who had practiced it for hundreds of years. It was their way of getting rid of an unpopular official or of an extraordinarily exorbitant tax. Most such taxes were on goods, a transaction tax of some kind. They just did not use that kind of goods and there was no transaction. Also no taxes were paid. The government invariably gave in because the alternative was shooting down too many people and the jails were never large enough to hold an entire population.

In the West, we have to resort to violence to accomplish our purposes and too often we fail because the violence is swift, sharp and fruitless. Mass passive resistance is a very slow process. It does not start with fierceness and therefore is, at first, unnoticed. Then slowly there is an accumulation of effects, with the pocketbook hit until it screams for protection. Then comes some form of retaliation which usually stimulates the passive resistance and gives it renewed life. Then comes a prolonged trial of strength. It is during this period that the boycotted goods or services cease to exist because the financial strain is impossible. It is at that point that compromisers step in to do something about the boycott.

There is not much difference between one people and another. A passive resistance movement that works in India or China will work in the United States if the same social pressures come into existence. I have known Chinese boys who would not be seen with a Chinese girl who wore Japanese-made stockings. As it was impossible to distinguish between silk stockings made in Japan or in the United States, the young ladies did not wear silk stockings at all. Nylons had not yet appeared. They wore ugly, ill-shaped cotton stockings because such were made in China. There is strength in such self-abnegation.

Passive resistance we all practice, particularly when we are children and have to devise ways of getting around parents, teachers and other masterful persons. Therefore the practice is not difficult to learn. In fact, it might be called innate. Whatever it is, you simply do not do it no matter what the consequences.

Of course, parents can spank children for such stubbornness, but if you recall that operation before the days of progressive parenthood, the child attained an enormous victory by howling and shedding tears which diverted the emphasis from the main issue and so the parents claimed, it hurt them more than it did the child. At any rate, the stubborn rascal had to be assuaged to get rid of the howl and the required action remained undone, but the child was supposed to learn not to be so stubborn the next time which he generally was. The female parent usually summed up the equation with the phrase, "I just don't know what to do with that child," which is about true of every situation involving passive resistance.

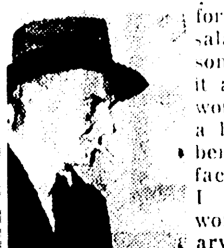
Lights Over Broadway

Dear Walter: Again many thanks for the wonderful item in the Los Angeles Herald Express about my movie formula and my salary. I suppose some people find it amazing that I would step out of a high-salaried berth, but the fact remains that I have always worked for a salary and have never owned a percentage of any picture that I produced. Therefore 90 percent of my income has gone for taxes, Federal and State. It is ironically amusing. My last picture which I have just completed, 'Man in the Gray Flannel Suit,' is a perfect example of what I am up against.



"I bought the book when nobody else wanted it. I selected the writer and Nunnally Johnson as the director. I personally produced it. But under Nunnally's new contract with 20th Century Fox he has a percentage of the profits on the 'Man in the Gray Flannel Suit' and all I have is my salary and not even a gray flannel suit. RIPLEY'S — Believe It Or Not!

Bascom N. Timmons

IN WASHINGTON

Missiles Race

The reported superiority of Soviet Russia over the United States in heavy bombers and guided missiles, if it is ever demonstrated in an attack, would be the greatest blow that could be delivered against the American system of free enterprise.

Since free enterprise has developed the industry of this nation to a peak never even approached in history it carries the responsibility of keeping U.S. defense production ahead of the rest of the world. That is conditioned upon congressional appropriations and intelligent direction of the fast moving development program by responsibile officials of government.

If the Russians are ahead of us in airborne weapons, the fault lies with three causes. Free enterprise may be falling down on its job, the amount of money provided may be inadequate or the men in charge may be incompetent. These are hard, brutal facts which those familiar with the program agree must be faced.

A study of the situation has brought enough information to support the following conclusions:

1. Appropriations for heavy bombers have been inadequate. The appropriations cuts forced by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson have held production of the most advanced bombers at a minimum, because they are the most expensive. The cuts have also made it extremely difficult to train enough skilled experts, either in operation or maintenance departments.

2. Free enterprise has done a good job within the limits placed upon the producing companies. But then primary attention of most producers is on civilian equipment. Only a full fledged war gives military production a priority, and by then it might be too late to get ahead of the Communists.

3. The bitter disagreement over guided missile production chiefly among the responsible heads at the Pentagon has retarded production so greatly that to achieve superiority may be difficult. For example, the United States does have one guided missile which has flown 1500 miles in demonstration, but arguments about its effectiveness and industry jealousies have kept it in the demonstration stage. The Russians claim they have a 1500 mile missile, though nobody outside Russia has ever seen it. The Pentagon has accepted the Communists' word that it exists.

Trevor Gardner, who recently resigned as Air Force special assistant for research and development, including guided missiles, was a center of controversy, resulting in part from charges that he favored large aircraft companies over the smaller ones, though the latter in numerous instances have been responsible for development of missile weapons considerably in advance of those produced by the bigger companies. Gardner reportedly was dissatisfied with the longest range missile yet developed, called the Shark, a missile which is reliably said to have traveled 1500 miles under celestial guidance, which means over a course charted by the stars.

Gardner an electronic specialist of high rating, graduated from California Tech. was said to have resigned because Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson would not make him "czar" of the guided missile program. Wilson is dissatisfied because the Army, Navy, and Air Force have been competing in the guided missile race, instead of working in cooperation. Currently the Redstone rocket, perfected under Army contracts., which has not flown more than 200 miles, seems to have a favored position. All test flights are made from two secret Florida bases.

The keen competitive spirit which animates free enterprise appears to be absent in the missile competition, with the Defense Department uncertain how to bring into a central pool all the best rocket geniuses, and get them to work together, as the atomic scientists did after the U.S. entered World War II. The Department's present inclination seems to be to concentrate tests in the hands of one company, as indicated by the contract let to Chrysler Corp. primarily an automobile maker, for a "crash" program in rapid missile development.

In the military aviation field, the Defense Department accepts responsibility for the slow progress in equipping the Air Force with advanced bombers. Though no Russian aircraft has flown far beyond Communist territory, the Soviet chiefs still claim they have thousands of intercontinental bombers. The American types have flown across oceans hundreds of times, but we have only a limited number. Meanwhile, American specialists differ widely as to where the U.S. stands in the stratosphere in comparison with the Reds.

Our Children

Dreams And Plans

Young people about to be graduated from secondary schools and those approaching their senior year are likely to be thinking, dreaming, planning what they will do with their lives, what kind of work they will do, how they will live and where. Often their dreams outrun their plans and for a time this must be accepted by teachers and parents. A dream, a deep wish, can become an actuality if it is granted time to season in its creator's mind, time to take form there. Then it becomes a plan for action and the teachers and parents can be of real help.

At times, older and more experienced people lose patience with the dreams and hopes of youth and squelch them with a "Why don't you come down to earth? How do you expect to do any such thing? Where did you get the idea that you know more than anybody else, anyway?"

The youth is likely to know more about his secret hope for his future than anyone else. It is stirring within him and, while he has no words to detail the idea, indeed it is so formless as yet that no words would help, he feels power. Given time, allowed to experiment with his idea, given opportunities to meet and talk with people who are successful in the field he visions for himself, his power will rise and become strong in purpose.

"Oh, I don't know. Here he is, a fine boy, and his heart set on being a doctor. Not just a doctor, mind you, nothing so pedestrian as that. He's going to outdo that man in Africa, that famous doctor. More. He's going to discover a great new means of curing what now is incurable. It's all right. It's fine. But I hate like sin to see him start out with his eye on the moon. I hate to think of his disappointment, his awful disillusionment."

Many a father and mother have thought just that and suffered for their idealistic children. They need not. True, nobody ever yet has reached the height he marked as his, but oh, the number who climbed high because they did set it. That same doctor in Africa, Dr. Schweitzer, for example.

This firm fact is on the side of the idealistic youth and maiden. The deep wish, set clearly in mind, seen as a finished job, becomes a road of growth and a road to achievement. Without that dream, that hope and that plan, without the firm faith that upholds them, there will be little growth toward the world's progress. There will be those who will maintain the progress made, but the man with the flag will be lacking and the world the loser.

So we would encourage the idealistic dream, the rainbowed hope, and help it come to actuality.

Each bad habit in a child should be replaced by a good one. How to do this is explained by Dr. Patri in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

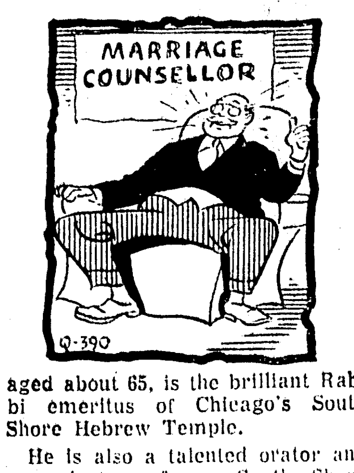
Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Dr. Fox is a rabbi emeritus who still remains in the harness. He pinch hits for me before my Bible Class when I am out of the city, and serves as an official Marriage Counsellor. He typifies the ideal goal for all clergymen after they retire from active duty in their pulpits.

Case O-390: Dr. G. George Fox,



aged about 65, is the brilliant Rabbi emeritus of Chicago's South Shore Hebrew Temple.

He is also a talented orator and a mainstay of our South Shore YMCA of which we are both Board Members.

When I am out of the city on lecture trips that keep me away over Sunday, Dr. Fox often pinch hits for me before my large Bible Class at the St. John's Church.

Incidentally, instead of easing up regarding my Bible teaching in my later years, I find myself becoming even more heavily engaged.

For now I teach a Bible Class at 9:30 each Sunday morning at the large St. John's Church on the south side of Chicago, and then hasten down to the Loop to duplicate that task at noon before my Bible Class at the skyscraper Chicago Temple.

And I am almost always on the job, if I am in Chicago. Only once in 20 years have I missed teaching my Bible Classes due to illness.

But occasionally I am away from Chicago, so good friends like Dr. Fox then take my place and do a better job than I can boast of.

Dr. Fox has a keen sense of humor so he judiciously mixes Bible interpretation with clever sallies.

"I'm the only Methodist Rabbi in captivity," he laughingly informs the audience, referring to the fact that he obtained his Ph. D. degree at Illinois Wesleyan College.

For many years Dr. Fox graciously opened his large church auditorium to all civic and religious bodies who desired a spacious central meeting place.

For we had no other adequate auditorium in our section of Chicago. Dr. Fox also was the prime organizer of the Ministerial Association of our area, which is composed of clergymen of all denominations.

Dr. Fox served as president thereof when it first was launched under his enterprising leadership and has been the main sparkplug therein ever since.

He has proved not only a great moral asset to our part of Chicago but has written several books and has lectured widely all over the U.S.A.

Originally hailing from Texas, he combines the outlook of both the North and the South, and serves as an ideal man to expound Old Testament Bible lessons.

In recent years, since his retirement as the active head of his Hebrew Temple, he has functioned as a Marriage Counsellor, for which he is admirable qualified.

In fact, I recommend this role to all retired clergymen, for I find that the pastor is generally in better rapport with married folk than is the average physician or attorney.

Since marriage is a spiritual union and not a mere civil contract, I find that ministers usually have more of the artistic touch when probing into causes for marital feuding.

Our American clergy are also very alert to all modern psychological and psychiatric conditions.

Over 1,500 clergymen write to me every year via this clinical psychology column. And I have personally conducted Marriage Clinics or furnished sex booklets for hundreds of Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew Churches.

As an ideal hobby, therefore, when you clergy retire from active duties in the pulpit itself, I'd like to see you serve as local Marriage Counsellors.

From your wide training in psychological and moral subjects you are the best qualified group in the land for advising on family, juvenile and marital problems.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper enclosing a long 3 cents stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

I studied these movements closely and I found that they always succeeded in their immediate objectives, although subsequently politicians found ways of circumventing their consequences. For instance the 1919 Students' Movement was called to prevent China from signing the Paris Treaty. China did not sign that treaty. As a matter of fact, it was the solid victory of the students in 1919 which gave impetus to the communist movement in China. Most of the present important communist leaders were participants in that movement.

The reason that boycott movements are successful is very simple: while it is possible to lead a horse to water, it is impossible to make him drink. When it becomes socially improper to buy from certain stores or to use certain products, people do not do what is socially improper. Jail sentences, even the killing of a few leaders never frightened people into buying a boycotted product.

Gandhi learned passive resistance from the Chinese who had practiced it for hundreds of years. It was their way of getting rid of an unpopular official or of an extraordinarily exorbitant tax. Most such taxes were on goods, a transaction tax of some kind. They just did not use that kind of goods and there was no transaction. Also no taxes were paid. The government invariably gave in because the alternative was shooting down too many people and the jails were never large enough to hold an entire population.

In the West, we have to resort to violence to accomplish our purposes and too often we fail because the violence is swift, sharp and fruitless. Mass passive resistance is a very slow process. It does not start with fierceness and therefore is, at first, unnoticed. Then slowly there is an accumulation of effects, with the pocketbook hit until it screams for protection. Then comes some form of retaliation which usually stimulates the passive resistance and gives it renewed life. Then comes a prolonged trial of strength. It is during this period that the boycotted goods or services cease to exist because the financial strain is impossible. It is at that point that compromisers step in to do something about the boycott.

There is not much difference between one people and another. A passive resistance movement that works in India or China will work in the United States if the same social pressures come into existence. I have known Chinese boys who would not be seen with a Chinese girl who wore Japanese-made stockings. As it was impossible to distinguish between silk stockings made in Japan or in the United States, the young ladies did not wear silk stockings at all. Nylons had not yet appeared. They wore ugly, ill-shaped cotton stockings because such were made in China. There is strength in such self-abnegation.

Passive resistance we all practice, particularly when we are children and have to devise ways of getting around parents, teachers and other masterful persons. Therefore the practice is not difficult to learn. In fact, it might be called innate. Whatever it is, you simply do not do it no matter what the consequences.

Of course, parents can spank children for such stubbornness, but if you recall that operation before the days of progressive parenthood, the child attained an enormous victory by howling and shedding tears which diverted the emphasis from the main issue and so the parents claimed, it hurt them more than it did the child. At any rate, the stubborn rascal had to be assuaged to get rid of the howl and the required action remained undone, but the child was supposed to learn not to be so stubborn the next time which he generally was. The female parent usually summed up the equation with the phrase, "I just don't know what to do with that child," which is about true of every situation involving passive resistance.

Lights Over Broadway

Dear Walter: Again many thanks for the wonderful item in the Los Angeles Herald Express about my movie formula and my salary. I suppose some people find it amazing that I would step out of a high - salaried berth, but the fact remains that I have always worked for a salary and have never owned a percentage of any icture that I produced. Therefore 90 percent of my income has gone for taxes, Federal and State. It is ironically amusing. My last picture which I have just completed, 'Man in the Gray Flannel Suit,' is a perfect example of what I am up against.

"I bought the book when nobody else wanted it. I selected the writer and Nunnally Johnson as the director. I personally produced it. But under Nunnally's new contract with 20th Century Fox he has a percentage of the profits on the 'Man in the Gray Flannel Suit' and all I have is my salary and not even a gray flannel suit. Darryl."

Curtain Calls: Guy Lombardo's new platter for Capitol, "Our Melody". . .Enzo Stuarti's "Addio Bimba" (Jubilee). . .Ada Moore's song magic at the Village Vanguard. . . .Vicky Autier's chansons at Viennese Lantern. RIPLEY'S — Believe It Or Not!

PRE-CONVENTION PARADE

Bascom N. Timmons

IN WASHINGTON

Missiles Race

The reported superiority of Soviet Russia over the United States in heavy bombers and guided missiles, if it is ever demonstrated in an attack, would be the greatest blow that could be delivered against the American system of free enterprise.

Since free enterprise has developed the industry of this nation to a peak never even approached in history it carries the responsibility of keeping U.S. defense production ahead of the rest of the world. That is conditioned upon congressional appropriations and intelligent direction of the fast moving development program by responsibile officials of government.

If the Russians are ahead of us in airborne weapons, the fault lies with three causes. Free enterprise may be falling down on its job, the amount of money provided may be inadequate or the men in charge may be incompetent. These are hard, brutal facts which those familiar with the program agree must be faced.

A study of the situation has brought enough information to support the following conclusions:

1. Appropriations for heavy bombers have been inadequate. The appropriations cuts forced by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson have held production of the most advanced bombers at a minimum, because they are the most expensive. The cuts have also made it extremely difficult to train enough skilled experts, either in operation or maintenance departments.

2. Free enterprise has done a good job within the limits placed upon the producing companies. But then primary attention of most producers is on civilian equipment. Only a full fledged war gives military production a priority, and by then it might be too late to get ahead of the Communists.

3. The bitter disagreement over guided missile production chiefly among the responsible heads at the Pentagon has retarded production so greatly that to achieve superiority may be difficult. For example, the United States does have one guided missile which has flown 1500 miles in demonstration, but arguments about its effectiveness and industry jealousies have kept it in the demonstration stage. The Russians claim they have a 1500 mile missile, though nobody outside Russia has ever seen it. The Pentagon has accepted the Communists' word that it exists.

Trevor Gardner, who recently resigned as Air Force special assistant for research and development, including guided missiles, was a center of controversy, resulting in part from charges that he favored large aircraft companies over the smaller ones, though the latter in numerous instances have been responsible for development of missile weapons considerably in advance of those produced by the bigger companies. Gardner reportedly was dissatisfied with the longest range missile yet developed, called the Shark, a missile which is reliably said to have traveled 1500 miles under celestial guidance, which means over a course charted by the stars.

Gardner an electronic specialist of high rating, graduated from California Tech, was said to have resigned because Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson would not make him "czar" of the guided missile program. Wilson is dissatisfied because the Army, Navy, and Air Force have been competing in the guided missile race, instead of working in cooperation. Currently the Redstone rocket, perfected under Army contracts., which has not flown more than 200 miles, seems to have a favored position. All test flights are made from two secret Florida bases.

The keen competitive spirit which animates free enterprise appears to be absent in the missile competition, with the Defense Department uncertain how to bring into a central pool all the best rocket geniuses, and get them to work together, as the atomic scientists did after the U.S. entered World War II. The Department's present inclination seems to be to concentrate tests in the hands of one company, as indicated by the contract let to Chrysler Corp. primarily an automobile maker, for a "crash" program in rapid missile development.

In the military aviation field, the Defense Department accepts responsibility for the slow progress in equipping the Air Force with advanced bombers. Though no Russian aircraft has flown far beyond Communist territory, the Soviet chiefs still claim they have thousands of intercontinental bombers. The American types have flown across oceans hundreds of times, but we have only a limited number. Meanwhile, American specialists differ widely as to where the U.S. stands in the stratosphere in comparison with the Reds.

Our Children

Dreams And Plans

Young people about to be graduated from secondary schools and those approaching their senior year are likely to be thinking, dreaming, planning what they will do with their lives, what kind of work they will do, how they will live and where. Often their dreams outrun their plans and for a time this must be accepted by teachers and parents. A dream, a deep wish, can become an actuality if it is granted time to season in its creator's mind, time to take form there. Then it becomes a plan for action and the teachers and parents can be of real help.

At times, older and more experienced people lose patience with the dreams and hopes of youth and squelch them with a "Why don't you come down to earth? How do you expect to do any such thing? Where did you get the idea that you know more than anybody else, anyway?"

The youth is likely to know more about his secret hope for his future than anyone else. It is stirring within him and, while he has no words to detail the idea, indeed it is so formless as yet that no words would help, he feels power. Given time, allowed to experiment with his idea, given opportunities to meet and talk with people who are successful in the field he visions for himself, his power will rise and become strong in purpose.

"Oh, I don't know. Here he is, a fine boy, and his heart set on being a doctor. Not just a doctor, mind you, nothing so pedestrian as that. He's going to outdo that man in Africa, that famous doctor. More. He's going to discover a great new means of curing what now is incurable. It's all right. It's fine. But I hate like sin to see him start out with his eye on the moon. I hate to think of his disappointment, his awful disillusionment."

Many a father and mother have thought just that and suffered for their idealistic children. They need not. True, nobody ever yet has reached the height he marked as his, but oh, the number who climbed high because they did set it. That same doctor in Africa, Dr. Schweitzer, for example.

This firm fact is on the side of the idealistic youth and maiden. The deep wish, set clearly in mind, seen as a finished job, becomes a road of growth and a road to achievement. Without that dream, that hope and that plan, without the firm faith that upholds them, there will be little growth toward the world's progress. There will be those who will maintain the progress made, but the man with the flag will be lacking and the world the loser.

So we would encourage the idealistic dream, the rainbowed hope, and help it come to actuality.

Each bad habit in a child should be replaced by a good one. How to do this is explained by Dr. Patri in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper, P.O. Box 99, Station G. New York 19, N. Y.

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Dr. Fox is a rabbi emeritus who still remains in the harness. He pinch hits for me before my Bible Class when I am out of the city, and serves as an official Marriage Counsellor. He typifies the ideal goal for all clergymen after they retire from active duty in their pulpits.

Case O-390: Dr. G. George Fox,

aged about 65, is the brilliant Rabbi emeritus of Chicago's South Shore Hebrew Temple.

He is also a talented orator and a mainstay of our South Shore YMCA of which we are both Board Members.

When I am out of the city on lecture trips that keep me away over Sunday, Dr. Fox often pinch hits for me before my large Bible Class at the St. John's Church.

Incidentally, instead of easing up regarding my Bible teaching in my later years, I find myself becoming even more heavily engaged.

For now I teach a Bible Class at 9:30 each Sunday morning at the large St. John's Church on the south side of Chicago, and then hasten down to the Loop to duplicate that task at noon before my Bible Class at the skyscraper Chicago Temple.

And I am almost always on the job, if I am in Chicago. Only once in 20 years have I missed teaching my Bible Classes due to illness.

But occasionally I am away from Chicago, so good friends like Dr. Fox then take my place and do a better job than I can boast of.

Dr. Fox has a keen sense of humor so he judiciously mixes Bible interpretation with clever sallies.

"I'm the only Methodist Rabbi in captivity," he laughingly informs the audience, referring to the fact that he obtained his Ph. D. degree at Illinois Wesleyan College.

For many years Dr. Fox graciously opened his large church auditorium to all civic and religious bodies who desired a spacious central meeting place.

For we had no other adequate auditorium in our section of Chicago. Dr. Fox also was the prime organizer of the Ministerial Association of our area, which is composed of clergymen of all denominations.

Dr. Fox served as president thereof when it first was launched under his enterprising leadership and has been the main sparkplug therein ever since.

He has proved not only a great moral asset to our part of Chicago, but has written several books and has lectured widely all over the U.S.A.

Originally hailing from Texas, he combines the outlook of both the North and the South, and serves as an ideal man to expound Old Testament Bible lessons.

In recent years, since his retirement as the active head of his Hebrew Temple, he has functioned as a Marriage Counsellor, for which he is admirable qualified.

In fact, I recommend this role to all retired clergymen, for I find that the pastor is generally in better rapport with married folks than is the average physician or attorney.

Since marriage is a spiritual union and not a mere civil contract, I find that ministers usually have more of the artistic touch when probing into causes for marital feuding.

Our American clergy are also very alert to all modern psychological and psychiatric conditions.

Over 1,500 clergymen write to me every year via this clinical psychology column. And I have personally conducted Marriage Clinics or furnished sex booklets for hundreds of Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew Churches.

As an ideal hobby, therefore, when you clergy retire from active duties in the pulpit itself, I'd like to see you serve as local Marriage Counsellors.

From your wide training in psychological and moral subjects, you are the best qualified group in the land for advising on family, juvenile and marital problems.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper enclosing a long 3 cents stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Son Should See Through Vicious Daughter-In-Law

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: We are just an average American family and were very happy until my son met a girl from abroad. She came to this city two years ago, friendless and lonely. We took her into our home and here she stayed for almost a year without paying board. I helped her get a job but she didn't like it and quit.

Last year she married our son. I didn't approve of the marriage, as the girl didn't seem interested in anything he liked. They left here, set up a flat for themselves and a week after they were married I went to call on them. The reception I received was utterly amazing. She called through the door that they were eating and I wasn't invited. I left, absolutely sick at heart.

We gave them $1,000 for a wedding present to buy their furniture, yet her contention is that when he married, all relationship with his family was severed. All I want is for her to be friendly. I'll always be nice to them, no matter how often I must turn the other cheek.

Mrs. B. D.

ANSWER: I gasped at your letter. That a girl can be guilty of such base ingratitude is hard to believe, but that a son can be so stupidly blind is beyond comprehension.

Turning the other cheek will never solve this problem. Eventually you'll have no more cheeks to turn.

At the moment, your daughter-in-law is calling the tune, with her husband complacently agreeing. From the girl you'll never get anything but insulting indifference. Your son, however, will almost surely see the light. The contrast between the warm, closely knit home he left, and the calculated cruelty of the present abode, is too marked to go unnoticed.

The girl is a grasping, greedy person, out to get everything she can from everyone. Pray for your son, that he will get enough authority in his own home to offset the Machiavellian mind now running it.

FIVE-TIME LOSER

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband has been married five times, though he told me he had never been married before. He's 38 and I'm 21. Also he drinks, which I didn't know before our marriage. He's always talking about his other wives, comparing me with them (to my disadvantage, of course). We've only been married three months but I want to leave him already. Rhoda

ANSWER: What a lot of grief you'd have been saved if you had trusted less and investigated more. You really can't expect a man with such a marital record to keep quiet about it, so naturally he talks about his former wives. If four other women found him impossible, I doubt if you'll work a miracle.

DEAR MISS DIX: Although my fiance is divorced, his ex-wife calls him three and four times a day with endless conversation, supposedly about the children's affairs. He disapproves of me getting calls from other men. Am I unreasonably jealous?

Disgusted

ANSWER: It seems to me that if you retire gracefully from the scene this couple will be reunited. They certainly have more in common than the children.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Rev. Holstead Called As Pastor Of Calif. Church

Rev. Charles Holstead has been called for pastor of the Silverado Baptist Church, Napa, Calif., and left today with his family for that distant city to begin his work.

Young Holstead, still in his middle twenties, is a former West Monroe youth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holstead of the Arkansas Road, West Monroe. He is a graduate of Louisiana College and the New Orleans Seminary.

Napa California is a city of thirty-five thousand with only two Southern Baptist churches of which the Rev. Holstead is a member. Back from a recent visit to California Holstead said, "the far west is a land of opportunity for young Southern Baptist pastors."

John P. Crain On Wild Life Group

John Paul Crain of Cameron has been appointed by Gov. Robert F. Kennon to fill the unexpired term of J. W. Doxey, also of Cameron, as a member of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission.

Doxey had been a member of the seven-man state wildlife board since December 10, 1952. He was reappointed in 1953 to serve a six-year term, or until December 10, 1959, but resigned Tuesday because of ill health.

Building Material Dealers To Meet In New Orleans

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (Special) — The 36th Annual convention and Exhibit of Building Materials of the Louisiana Building Material Dealers Association will be held at the Jung Hotel, New Orleans, on March 13, 14 and 15 according to a statement released today by R. Needham Ball, executive vice president of that organization.

"Operation Home Improvement will be largely the theme of the annual meeting," Ball stated. "This program which was inauguarated by President Eisenhower on January 16 has named the year '1956 - The Year To Fix.' This program is one in which the retail lumber and building material dealers of Louisiana and the nation as a whole are intensely interested and are organizing through their community groups to make this a continuing program of service to home owners so that they can make their home a better place in which to live.

"As usual, the 60 exhibits of many and varied building products sponsored by national manufacturers will be an outstanding feature," Ball said. "Technical ingenuity is producing a wider range of products for the home owner and many of these will be on display at the meeting."

Ball continued by saying that the Wednesday program would be featured by speakers of national prominence in the industry and the Thursday program would be devoted to a panel discussion of the problems facing the dealers. Indications are for a record attendance for a meeting which the dealers feel is one of great importance in this year of great opportunities with the national program of home improvement.

Awards Are Given In Essay Writing

In assembly Friday at St. Matthew's High School, awards were made to Bernard Lyons for his prize winning essay on "The Advantages of Private Medical Care" and to second and third place winners Elizabeth Heck and Mary Anna Embanato.

The essays were written in response to the topic and materials sent out by the medical association which is offering prizes for the best essays on the subject. The winners will enter their essays in the parish contest, state and at the national level. The national prize winner will receive $1000 and the 2nd and 3rd place winners will receive substantial cash awards.

The students at St. Matthew's are usually assigned themes of approximately 1,000 to 1,500 words twice during the school year. Sister Fabian Rose, instructor of the Juniors who entered this contest, said that a great deal more interest was shown in writing for this topic.

The students were greatly encouraged by the fact that last year's first and third place national winners were native Louisianians.

Flag Ceremonies Are Held Daily At Neville High

A brief ceremony conducted twice daily at Neville High School has attracted attention because it is unique in a school in which there is no R.O.T.C. unit.

Every morning at 8:20 the students observe a moment of silent prayer while the flag is being raised in front of Neville and again at 3:05 in the afternoon when the flag is lowered.

This ceremony was inaugurated during World War II, when President Roosevelt asked for a moment of prayer each day, and it has become an institution at Neville.

The boys who twice daily perform this ritual volunteer their services and do so without any remuneration whatever.

PLAN INVESTIGATION

NEW ORLEANS — UP —Officials of the Greater New Orleans Expressway Authority plan to take a personal look Saturday at the damage caused to the new Lake Pontchartrain bridge by a barge, which ran into it Wednesday. John J. Holtgreve, president, and three other authority members, indicated they were going to study the possibility of engineering weaknesses after two 55-foot sections collapsed onto the barge.

Welcome Garden Club Will Have Bird Life Show

The Welcome Branch Garden Club will hold a regular meeting Monday, at 2 p.m. in the fellowship building of the First Presbyterian church in Monroe.

It will have special interest, as Mrs. John T. Daniel, Jr., of El Dorado, Ark., will lecture and show choice colored slides on bird life and habits.

The public is invited.

If the ice on Greenland were melted, the level of the world's oceans would rise 24 or more feet.

We gave them $1,000 for a wedding present to buy their furniture, yet her contention is that when he married, all relationship with his family was severed. All I want is for her to be friendly. I'll always be nice to them, no matter how often I must turn the other cheek.

Mrs. B. D.

ANSWER: I gasped at your letter. That a girl can be guilty of such base ingratitude is hard to believe, but that a son can be so stupidly blind is beyond comprehension.

Turning the other cheek will never solve this problem. Eventually you'll have no more cheeks to turn.

At the moment, your daughter-in-law is calling the tune, with her husband complacently agreeing. From the girl you'll never get anything but insulting indifference. Your son, however, will almost surely see the light. The contrast between the warm, closely knit home he left, and the calculated cruelty of the present abode, is too marked to go unnoticed.

The girl is a grasping, greedy person, out to get everything she can from everyone. Pray for your son, that he will get enough authority in his own home to offset the Machiavellian mind now running it.

FIVE-TIME LOSER

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband has been married five times, though he told me he had never been married before. He's 38 and I'm 21. Also he drinks, which I didn't know before our marriage. He's always talking about his other wives, comparing me with them (to my disadvantage, of course). We've only been married three months but I want to leave him already.

Rhoda

ANSWER: What a lot of grief you'd have been saved if you had trusted less and investigated more. You really can't expect a man with such a marital record to keep quiet about it, so naturally he talks about his former wives. If four other women found him impossible, I doubt if you'll work a miracle.

DEAR MISS DIX: Although my fiance is divorced, his ex-wife calls him three and four times a day with endless conversation, supposedly about the children's affairs. He disapproves of me getting calls from other men. Am I unreasonably jealous?

Disgusted

ANSWER: It seems to me that if you retire gracefully from the scene this couple will be reunited. They certainly have more in common than the children.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Rev. Holstead Called As Pastor Of Calif. Church

Rev. Charles Holstead has been called for pastor of the Silverado Baptist Church, Napa, Calif., and left today with his family for that distant city to begin his work.

Young Holstead, still in his middle twenties, is a former West Monroe youth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holstead of the Arkansas Road, West Monroe. He is a graduate of Louisiana College and the New Orleans Seminary.

Napa California is a city of thirty-five thousand with only two Southern Baptist churches of which the Rev. Holstead is a member. Back from a recent visit to California Holstead said, "the far west is a land of opportunity for young Southern Baptist pastors."

John P. Crain On Wild Life Group

John Paul Crain of Cameron has been appointed by Gov. Robert F. Kennon to fill the unexpired term of J. W. Doxey, also of Cameron, as a member of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission.

Doxey had been a member of the seven-man state wildlife board since December 10, 1952. He was reappointed in 1953 to serve a six-year term, or until December 10, 1959, but resigned Tuesday because of ill health.

Building Material Dealers To Meet In New Orleans

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (Special) — The 36th Annual convention and Exhibit of Building Materials of the Louisiana Building Material Dealers Association will be held at the Jung Hotel, New Orleans, on March 13, 14 and 15 according to a statement released today by R. Needham Ball, executive vice president of that organization.

"Operation Home Improvement will be largely the theme of the annual meeting," Ball stated. "This program which was inauguarated by President Eisenhower on January 16 has named the year '1956 - The Year To Fix.' This program is one in which the retail lumber and building material dealers of Louisiana and the nation as a whole are intensely interested and are organizing through their community groups to make this a continuing program of service to home owners so that they can make their home a better place in which to live.

"As usual, the 60 exhibits of many and varied building products sponsored by national manufacturers will be an outstanding feature," Ball said. "Technical ingenuity is producing a wider range of products for the home owner and many of these will be on display at the meeting."

Ball continued by saying that the Wednesday program would be featured by speakers of national prominence in the industry and the Thursday program would be devoted to a panel discussion of the problems facing the dealers. Indications are for a record attendance for a meeting which the dealers feel is one of great importance in this year of great opportunities with the national program of home improvement.

Awards Are Given In Essay Writing

In assembly Friday at St. Matthew's High School, awards were made to Bernard Lyons for his prize winning essay on "The Advantages of Private Medical Care" and to second and third place winners Elizabeth Heck and Mary Anna Embanato.

The essays were written in response to the topic and materials sent out by the medical association which is offering prizes for the best essays on the subject. The winners will enter their essays in the parish contest, state and at the national level. The national prize winner will receive $1000 and the 2nd and 3rd place winners will receive substantial cash awards.

The students at St. Matthew's are usually assigned themes of approximately 1,000 to 1,500 words twice during the school year. Sister Fabian Rose, instructor of the Juniors who entered this contest, said that a great deal more interest was shown in writing for this topic.

The students were greatly encouraged by the fact that last year's first and third place national winners were native Louisianians.

Flag Ceremonies Are Held Daily At Neville High

A brief ceremony conducted twice daily at Neville High School has attracted attention because it is unique in a school in which there is no R.O.T.C. unit.

Every morning at 8:20 the students observe a moment of silent prayer while the flag is being raised in front of Neville and again at 3:05 in the afternoon when the flag is lowered.

This ceremony was inaugurated during World War II, when President Roosevelt asked for a moment of prayer each day, and it has become an institution at Neville.

The boys who twice daily perform this ritual volunteer their services and do so without any remuneration whatever.

PLAN INVESTIGATION

NEW ORLEANS — UP —Officials of the Greater New Orleans Expressway Authority plan to take a personal look Saturday at the damage caused to the new Lake Pontchartrain bridge by a barge, which ran into it Wednesday. John J. Holtgreve, president, and three other authority members, indicated they were going to study the possibility of engineering weaknesses after two 55-foot sections collapsed onto the barge.

Welcome Garden Club Will Have Bird Life Show

The Welcome Branch Garden Club will hold a regular meeting Monday, at 2 p.m. in the fellowship building of the First Presbyterian church in Monroe.

It will have special interest, as Mrs. John T. Daniel, Jr., of El Dorado, Ark., will lecture and show choice colored slides on bird life and habits.

The public is invited.

Miss. Man Held For Theft At Monroe Jewelry

The twist of a local jeweler's memory here yesterday led to the arrest of a 44-year-old Hattiesburg, Miss., man and discovery by detectives of a dinner ring taken unnoticed in presence of the jeweler.

Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert identified the arrested man as Julius Croft, Negro.

Detectives stated that the jeweler, whose indentity was withheld, was approached early yesterday morning by a Negro asking for a particular ring which was stolen from the establishment in October of 1955.

The jeweler told detectives that the mention of the ring "rang a bell with him" and that the Negro he waited on in 1955 looked exactly like the Friday morning customer.

The old time "switch gag" where a ring of lesser value is substituted for a more expensive one in a display tray was used by an individual in 1955 to obtain a $999 ring, Chief Tolbert stated.

The jeweler in about one hour was to discover he was the victim of a second "switch gag."

The Negro in the store Friday answered the jeweler's description of the man in the store when the 1955 ring theft occurred, detectives said.

Detectives arrested Croft in front of another Monroe jewelry store about 10 o'clock. Tolbert said the man was taken to police headquarters where he was "stripped" and all his clothing searched.

Investigation revealed a diamond dinner ring and a diamond wedding ring, pinned to his inner clothing, detectives said.

The dinner ring was identified by the jeweler as belonging to his establishment. Further investigation revealed that a small ring valued at $75 had been inserted yesterday in the store's display tray in place of the expensive ring.

The five diamond ring, a Carlon-Bliechе mounting with a jeweler's marking of 59-25, has not been claimed detectives stated.

Ring substituted for the expensive dinner ring was described as white gold, nine diamond, with a basket type mounting.

Croft, who remained silent through most of the interrogation told detectives he had served time in "two or three" prisons, one of them, Angola.

The Negro was convicted in Monroe during 1937 on a ring and clothing theft, Chief Tolbert said.

Croft, charged with felony theft, was transferred to the parish jail, the detective chief stated.

City Council Members Remain Politically Quiet

Monroe City council members remain silent on their intentions to run for re-election, while certain possible opponents of two of them are being encouraged to seek the posts.

Mayor John E. Coon, commissioner of Streets and Parks Wayne Huckaby and Commissioner of Finance and Utilities Frank X. Cline Thursday were still noncomittal on whether they will be candidates for the posts they now hold.

Meanwhile, Jack Howard, who opposed Mayor Coon in 1952, said, "I appreciate the interest and encouragement shown by the many friends who have asked me to become a candidate for mayor. But as of now I have not decided."

Elbert H. (Bing) Miller, who said earlier that he was seriously considering an active campaign for Commissioner of finance and utilities, said last night, "I am being encouraged daily to make the race. I am still undecided, but I am giving it serious thought."

T. L. VanFossen, consultant electrical engineer for the city, also has been mentioned recently as a possible candidate for the post now held by Commissioner Cline, if Cline decides not to seek re-election.

Van Fossen said last night that he is primarily an electrical engineer. He said, however, that a number of people have made favorable approaches, encouraging him to become a candidate for city Commissioner.

As of now, Commissioner of Streets and Parks Huckaby appears to be unopposed even in rumors.

One of the interesting experiences at the firemen's conference held the past week in Memphis, Capt. J. W. Faler was able to hear the unusual story of Roy W. Speechless he was in desperate shape for he was unable even to whisper. Physically he remained perfectly sound aside from his throat injury.

He stated in his talk that he worked on learning to swallow air and trap it, then to bring it back up in the form of words. This seemed also a miracle but he showed how well he could talk. His address was 20 minutes in length and his hearers listened spellbound.

This is of interest as the Twin Cities have some cases of this nature and are about to form a club to which will be admitted persons who have had their vocal chords removed.

Damages Granted Woman Injured By Angola Escapee

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La., March 2 (AP) —A Tunica woman, wounded by an escapee from the Louisiana state penitentiary in 1953, has been awarded damages totaling $15,000.

Judge Woodrow W. Overton this week awarded Virginia Webb $10,000 for "past and future pain and suffering" and $5,000 for "mental suffering." The woman sued after she was shot by escaping convict Richard Escobar in November, 1953.

Escobar later kidnaped a man in an attempt to get out of Louisiana before his capture.

Judge Overton held that the state penitentiary was negligent in allowing Escobar to escape from custody and obtain possession of a pistol at the prison. At the time of his escape Escobar was a trusty. The judge ruled that the prison was negligent in not keeping a closer watch on the prisoner while he was working.

Testimony in the suit was taken last year. Escobar testified that he took the pistol from a dormitory for guards after getting drunk.

After shooting the Webb woman he kidnaped Hallie Walters at gunpoint and forced him to drive toward Mississippi. Escobar was captured at a roadblock west of Woodville, Miss.

Police Jury Authorizes Detention Home Contract

Signing of a contract for construction of a juvenile detention home and acceptance of repairs on the Ouachita parish courthouse subject to certain corrections were authorized by the Ouachita parish police jury at a special session yesterday afternoon.

The jury authorized its president, A. E. Montgomery, to sign a contract with Harry Carpenter for construction of the juvenile detention home at a cost of $120,924.56. Total cost of the home, including related expenses, is placed at $150,406.67. The project will be financed by a one-third mill property tax which will yield $150,333.33 over a five-year period. The home will be located on a ten-acre plot, already cleared, on the Millhaven Road.

Due to the necessity of whittling down the cost of the home in order to bring it within the range of available funds under the one-third mill tax, $8900 was lopped off the original specifications, it was explained at the meeting yesterday.

Among items eliminated were air conditioning equipment, which still leaves a central heating system adapted to cooling. The building will be left so that air conditioning, if desired, can be installed later. The cost was also reduced by substituting for the detention-type window where the window isn't actually needed, leaving it at points where it is necessary. Substitution of overhead electrical service for underground electrical service was another major cost - cutting measure.

The jury accepted the courthouse repairs on the condition that $500 be withheld from the contract price pending the following corrections:

Replacement of marble sill in library; adjustment of all door closers; replacement of marble wainscot at steps to offices to match the existing marble if such is possible, and a touch-up job on all paint.

Jordanians Hail Ouster Of British Army Commander

AMMAN, Jordan, March 2 —UP — Demonstrating Jordanians hailed their 21-year-old King Hussein as a "liberator" Friday for freeing the army from British control.

The ouster of British Lt. Gen. John Glubb Psaha as chief of staff alarmed the government in London and the cabinet was called into emergency session. Glubb's removal was praised by Egypt and Syria. Israel expressed a wait-and-see attitude.

King Hussein, acting to bolster his regime after recent bitter anti-British rioting, replaced the legendary Glubb, who had spent 25 years building Jordan's Arab Legion into the finest in the Middle East, with a Jordanian officer.

Glubb immediately flew to the British island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean. He was expected to fly to London Saturday.

Amman and the Jordan - held old city of Jerusalem erupted into demonstrations with residents hailing Hussein.

But the British foreign office in London issued a formal statement terming Glubb's dismissal a "deep shock" and threatened "possible consequences, internal and external."

Polio Vaccine In Short Supply, Dr. Summer Says

A shortage of polio vaccine in Louisiana developed this week, according to Dr. Carroll Summer, health director of Ouachita and Morehouse parishes.

Dr. Symmer said the local supply gave out at 10 a.m. Friday and that, after checking with authorities in Baton Rouge, the entire state appears to have a shortage of the vaccine.

A shipment was said to be enroute to New Orleans which would be distributed over the state probably early next week, Dr. Summer said he learned. However, the possibilities of Ouachita or Morehouse parishes getting any of the shipment, or how much, were uncertain.

Dr. Summer added that when he receives a supply of the vaccine, his office will resume the giving of the initial polio injections which were scheduled to stop at noon today.

About 5,000 polio injections were given in Ouachita parish during February, the director said.

Mobile Instruction Team Due Monday

A mobile instruction team, from Fort Hood, Texas, consisting of, 1st Lt. John R. Osborne, Inf., SFC Clark B. Reichart, Inf., and SFC Edgar B. Wann, Inf. will visit the United States Army Reserve Training Center on March 5 at 7:30 p.m.

This team will present a two hour period of instruction and demonstration on modern infantry weapons, covering the characteristics of modern infantry weapons, tactical employment, problems of ammunition resupply, new developments in Infantry weapons and their normal employment. They will also compare our weapons to those of foreign armies.

Lt. Osborne entered the service in 1953 and is presently assigned to the 4th Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas. SFC Reichart served in World War II and in Korea. He is presently assigned to the 4th Armored Division as is SFC Wann, who saw service with the 7th Infantry Division during the Korean War.

An invitation is extended to all reservists of the armed forces, the National Guard and anyone interested in attending this course of instruction.

Police Jury Authorizes Detention Home Contract

Signing of a contract for construction of a juvenile detention home and acceptance of repairs on the Ouachita parish courthouse subject to certain corrections were authorized by the Ouachita parish police jury at a special session yesterday afternoon.

The jury authorized its president, A. E. Montgomery, to sign a contract with Harry Carpenter for construction of the juvenile detention home at a cost of $120,924.56. Total cost of the home, including related expenses, is placed at $150,406.67. The project will be financed by a one-third mill property tax which will yield $150,333.33 over a five-year period. The home will be located on a ten-acre plot, already cleared, on the Millhaven Road.

Due to the necessity of whittling down the cost of the home in order to bring it within the range of available funds under the one-third mill tax, $8900 was lopped off the original specificiations, it was explained at the meeting yesterday.

Among items eliminated were air conditioning equipment, which still leaves a central heating system adapted to cooling. The building will be left so that air conditioning, if desired, can be installed later. The cost was also reduced by substituting for the detention-type window where the window isn't actually needed, leaving it at points where it is necessary. Substitution of overhead electrical service for underground electrical service was another major cost - cutting measure.

The jury accepted the courthouse repairs on the condition that $500 be withheld from the contract price pending the following corrections:

Replacement of marble sill in library; adjustment of all door closers; replacement of marble wainscot at steps to offices to match the existing marble if such is possible; and a touch-up job on all paint.

Jordanians Hail Ouster Of British Army Commander

AMMAN, Jordan, March 2 —UP — Demonstrating Jordanians hailed their 21-year-old King Hussein as a "liberator" Friday for freeing the army from British control.

The ouster of British Lt. Gen. John Glubb Psaha as chief of staff alarmed the government in London and the cabinet was called into emergency session. Glubb's removal was praised by Egypt and Syria. Israel expressed a wait-and-see attitude.

King Hussein, acting to bolster his regime after recent bitter anti-British rioting, replaced the legendary Glubb, who had spent 25 years building Jordan's Arab Legion into the finest in the Middle East, with a Jordanian officer.

Glubb immediately flew to the British island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean. He was expected to fly to London Saturday.

Amman and the Jordan - held old city of Jerusalem erupted into demonstrations with residents hailing Hussein.

But the British foreign office in London issued a formal statement terming Glubb's dismissal a "deep shock" and threatened "possible consequences, internal and external."

Polio Vaccine In Short Supply, Dr. Summer Says

A shortage of polio vaccine in Louisiana developed this week, according to Dr. Carroll Summer, health director of Ouachita and Morehouse parishes.

Dr. Summer said the local supply gave out at 10 a.m. Friday and that, after checking with authorities in Baton Rouge, the entire state appears to have a shortage of the vaccine.

A shipment was said to be enroute to New Orleans which would be distributed over the state probably early next week, Dr. Summer said he learned. However, the possibilities of Ouachita or Morehouse parishes getting any of the shipment, or how much, were uncertain.

Dr. Summer added that when he receives a supply of the vaccine, his office will resume the giving of the initial polio injections which were scheduled to stop at noon today.

About 5,000 polio injections were given in Ouachita parish during February, the director said.

brought premium prices—but not record payments—at the exposition sale held here for the sixteenth consecutive year.

The junior reserve grand champion lamb, a Southdown weighing 98 pounds, raised by Leroy Watts of Morehouse parish 4—H Club, was sold for 80-cents a pound to Piggly Wiggly stores of Monroe. Total sales price was $78.40.

The reserve champion junior barrow brought more per pound and considerably higher total price than did the grand champion barrow. The reserve, raised by Michele Bagley, Tensas 4—H'er was purchased by John L. Land of Tallulah for $1.03 per pound. It weighed 205 pounds, and total price was $211.15.

The junior grand champion barrow owned by Bruce Craven of Morehouse 4—H Club, was bought for $1 a pound, and brought $172. It was purchased by Mrs. Mavis G. Bryan of Bryan Sausage Company, Downsville.

While no grand champion, reserve champion, purple or blue ribbon steers were offered at the auction, one of the red ribbon steers, an 837-pound Hereford owned by Richland parish 4—H'er Shirley Anderson, brought 60-cents a pound after a lively bidding session in which Charles Brown of 4-B Ranch of Tallulah won out. Total sales price of the steer was $502.20.

Other red ribbon steers sold from $17\frac{1}{2}$ to 30 cents a pound. For blue ribbon market hogs and a few purple ribbon winners, prices ranged generally from 16 to 25 cents a pound.

Outside of the champion lambs, prices on red and blue ribbon animals ranged from around 20 cents a pound to 27 cents. A large number of them went for 25-cents a pound.

There were 38 steers, 61 head of swine, and 56 lambs sold during the auction which lasted around two-hours. The sale got under way shortly after 1 p.m., following presentation of awards to winners in the junior livestock judging competition, junior showmanship categories, and to several 4—H and FFA members who were cited for outstanding work by the REA cooperative.

All of the animals offered at the junior auction were owned by 4—H club and FFA chapter members. The champions and purple and blue ribbon winners in the fat steer junior competition will be shown in competition next week at the state spring livestock show in Baton Rouge.

Only purple ribbon swine and sheep will be entered in competition in the junior section of the state show in Baton Rouge. Officials here stated that if the champion and reserve champion lambs and barrows sold here are rated in championship categories at Baton Rouge and better prices than were paid here are offered for them at the auction there, they may be sold again. Such resales are rare, however, the officials pointed out.

Principal speaker in ceremonies at the junior auction were W. H. Farmer, manager of the junior division, and State superintendent of education, Shelby Jackson. Dave pearce, state commissioner of agriculture, who had been scheduled to appear the event, was unable to attend because of illness, but sent a message of best wishes for the persons taking part in it.

Jackson said, in praising the accomplishments made by the stock show which was winding up its sixteenth annual run, "I feel this stock show is one of the finest in this area."

Farmer recalled attending the first junior livestock auction 16 years ago, and asked how many of the several hundred persons who were on hand today for the event had seen the initial one. A fair number of old-timers stood up in the stands of the sales pavillion to indicate that they had been there.

The manager of the junior dipision, in summing up the outlook for the annual exposition, said that the future of the show looked good, and there was ample opportunity growth.

Officials of the exposition which drew entries in the adult division from nine states—two more than last year—and numbered junior entries from 12 parishes in the northeast district, said that this year's event was the largest and most successful ever held. The number of entries in all divisions of swine, dairy, beef and sheep, numbered around 1,100 in addition to a large display of junior poultry. This is the largest turnout in the show's history.

Facilities which were expanded for this year's show already are in need of further expansion to take care of future expositions, officials said. During the five-day run of the show, officials estimated that around 50,000 persons had visited it.

Senate Reverses

and never mentioned campaign contributions.

The committee called Goodwin's wife and Wendell Edson, Storm Lake, Iowa, attorney, to testify Monday. It was understood that Mrs. Goodwin was on an extension phone when her husband received a call concerning his contacts with Neff.

Before recessing its hearings Friday, the committee brought out that Ralph W. Yarborough, unsuccessful Texas gubernatorial candidate, was given $1,000 by an oil company attorney to go around the state and determine whether he should run this year.

Goodwin swore that Neff paid two calls on him in November to inquire about Hickenlooper's stand on the now-vetoed natural gas bill. On the first, he said, Neff offered $2,500 for Hickenlooper and on the second proposed leaving a $1,000 "down payment." Goodwin said he rejected both.

Neff has insisted he paid only one call on Goodwin and never discussed campaign contributions. His stand was supported Friday by his attorney, Ivan D. Evans, Broken Bow, Neb., who submitted an affidavit challenging Goodwin's sworn testimony.

Affidavits challenging Goodwin's testimony also were submitted by John H. Evans, Evan's son and law partner, and Paul J. Gerdes, law partner of Neff.

Cimmittee counsel Charles W. Steadman said the committee will submit a report to the Senate by March 10 on the Case incident. It then will be up to the Justice Department to carry on from there, he said.

The department has launched a grand jury investigation of the offer to Case. It was this offer which precipitated the dramatic investigation by the special committee, headed by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.). It also led to President Eisenhower's veto of the controversial gas bill.

Senate Reverses

and never mentioned campaign contributions.

The committee called Goodwin's wife and Wendell Edson, Storm Lake, Iowa, attorney, to testify Monday. It was understood that Mrs. Goodwin was on an extension phone when her husband received a call concerning his contacts with Neff.

Before recessing its hearings Friday, the committee brought out that Ralph W. Yarborough, unsuccessful Texas gubernatorial candidate, was given $1,000 by an oil company attorney to go around the state and determine whether he should run this year.

Goodwin swore that Neff paid two calls on him in November to inquire about Hickenlooper's stand on the now-vetoed natural gas bill. On the first, he said, Neff offered $2,500 for Hickenlooper and on the second proposed leaving a $1,000 "down payment." Goodwin said he rejected both.

Neff has insisted he paid only one call on Goodwin and never discussed campaign contributions. His stand was supported Friday by his attorney, Ivan D. Evans, Broken Bow, Neb., who submitted an affidavit challenging Goodwin's sworn testimony.

Affidavits challenging Goodwin's testimony also were submitted by John H. Evans, Evan's son and law partner, and Paul J. Gerdes, law partner of Neff.

Cimmittee counsel Charles W. Steadman said the committee will submit a report to the Senate by March 10 on the Case incident. It then will be up to the Justice Department to carry on from there, he said.

The department has launched a grand jury investigation of the offer to Case. It was this offer which precipitated the dramatic investigation by the special committee, headed by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.). It also led to President Eisenhower's veto of the controversial gas bill.

Career Advancement Topic At B&PW Program Meeting

The Business & Professional Women's Club of Monroe held their monthly program meeting at the YWCA Tuesday, February 28, at 7:30 p.m. with 35 members present.

The program was under the direction of Bettie Oxford, Committee Chairman on Career Advancement. Talks were presented by three members of the club, Mrs. Madeline Hirsch, Mrs. Johnnie S. Elbert and Mrs. Ruth Cooley. They each used as their subject the establishing of their individual business.

Mrs. Hursch told the audience how she started out in a very small way with her now well established Flower Shoppe. Her first cooling system for preserving her flowers was an ice box on her back porch. A box that served a duel purpose of keeping her food as well as her flowers. She said many was the time that her butter tasted like violets.

Miss Johnnie, as her friends all call her, started her Ladies Ready to wear in 1915. Hers too was a very meager beginning. The Department Store where she was employed had warned her that they would have to cut her salary from twenty to fifteen dollars a week. Feeling that she could not manage on such a small income she persuaded a friend to put up five hundred dollars and she would match the sum and with the one thousand plus three hundred dollars they just earned by saving coupons for a trip out west they bought their first supply of stock and opened on DeSiard Street in a building which they rented for fifty dollars a month.

The Monroe Letter Shop of which Ruth Cooley Is Co-Owner got its birth in one room of her home with only one typewriter to start. A small memograph machine was soon added and after months of hard work which she was taught from childhood was honorable, she today operates a well established business.

It was of great interest to follow the growth of each of these establishments at a time when our minds were primarily turned toward March 10th when Monroe will be hostess to the Small Business Clinic sponsored by the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women and Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry. The Clinic will be held at the Frances Hotel here in Monroe and sessions will begin at 9:00 a.m. Luncheon will be served at 12 noon and sessions will resume at 2:00 p.m. There will be no registeration fee, and tables will be provided for exhibits.

After much discussion and many questions on hobbies that have, and can develop into a business, the entire group was divided into four sessions and a recorder from each group reported other interesting and educational facts.

Those present were: Ruth Cooley, Florence Davis, Jewel Wise, Alice Baur, Bessie Skinner, Agnes Krogmire, Gladys Miles, Hazel Wakefield, Elizabeth Stenberg, Maibel Hood, Lela Wyatt, Johnnie S. Elbert, Florence E. Powers, Inas Gwin, Lula Swinson, Addie Lou Juneman, Faye Heard, Mamie Ober Carice King, Edna Manley, Laura Slator, Flora Seaman, Mary Gene Lea, Opal Creasy, Edna Vaughan, Louise Massey, Dorothy Blacketer, Evelyn Pankey, Helen Trichel, Marguerite Meek, Lucille Mathis, and Sara Kennon.

The hostesses were: Bettie Oxford, Myrtle Porter, Mae Modes, Sue Crossman and Ava White.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Another fault of the "Goop"—He does not hold the door for you when going through one at a public place, and lets it slam on you.

Deluge Of Letters Reveals Pet Peeves About 'Goops'

Not so long ago I wrote a column about "Goops." I listed some of the things which Goops do such as standing in doorways, dragging their coats over your head as they take their seats behind you in a theater, etc. I also said that all of us are Goops at one time or another.

Evidently a lot of people had a lot of things they wanted to "get off their chests" because I have been deluged by letters from readers listing their pet peeves about Goops. I thought you might be interested in some of them. The following are excerpts from "different" letters received. "Another fault of the Goop—He does not hold the door for you when going through one at a public place, but lets it slam on you. If you hold the door for the Goop in back of you he doesn't put out his hand to catch it but just passes on by you."

Huh?

"My best known Goop says 'Huh?' to everything you say to him."

"My Goop is the one who brings her children to visit and lets them ruin or almost ruin many things in your house which you consider of value. You may be a nervous wreck while the parent just sits and relaxes."

"Here are some of the Goops I know: Those who use oscillating sprinklers for their lawns and leave them on for hours so that you have to wade through puddles to gain entrance to your own house."

"People who allow their dogs to run loose and overturn your garbage cans."

"People who have barking dogs so that you cannot sleep when you need to."

"People who park in front of your driveway or your walk going into the house when they could park a bit away and walk a third of a block."

"Mothers who always think that their children are right in any neighborhood children's problems."

"Women who go to the basement bargain counter and then expect exclusive service. Not long ago I stood behind one woman who had the saleslady measure each pair of 50 cent stockings for length while the line grew longer and longer."

Super Market Goop

"The woman in a super market who pushes her cart so close behind you that you either get a skinned heel or a run in your nylons."

"The woman in a super market who has all of her large, multitudinous purchases added up and just when she is about to pay for them remembers something she forgot and expects to keep her place in line while she rushes to get it."

On and on it goes but there is a familiar pattern in all of the complaints about Goops. Goops are often people who are kind and nice at heart but they are unperceptive and therefore unaware of the comfort and problems of others.

Lets spend as little time as possible being Goops.

her decision to continue her fight at a news conference at the headquarters here fo the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Several policemen were posted outside the building but there were no incidents.

The university board of trustees announced Thursday that Lucy had been "permanently expelled" because of her "baseless" charges that university officials had conspired with student rioters to drive her from the campus so she could be barred from the campus on grounds of her own safety.

"I have been advised by my lawyers that there are legal steps available to me to test the validity or invalidity of this latest action of the board of trustees. I have, therefore, authorized them to take whatever steps are necessary for this purpose," Lucy said.

There was no immediate indication of what steps Lucy would take.

Her attorney, NAACP special counsel Thurgood Marshall accompanied her to the news conference and left with her immediately afterwards without making a statement. Earlier, Marshall said he would confer with other attorneys before deciding the next move for the Negro coed.

Lucy said she was "completely disheartened" by her explusion, but intended to return to Birmingham "within the next week."

"I came to New York for the dual purpose of consulting doctors and to get a rest from the terrific strain I have been under since this case began," Lucy said in a prepared statement which she read at the conference.

She read her statement nervously and would not answer newsmen's questions.

Meanwhile, in Tuscaloosa, home of Alabama University, two Negro brothers, who attacked a white university student during the height of the tension created by Lucy's appearance at the school last month, were indicted for "assault with intent to murder."

The brothers, John and Arthur Washington, were quoted as saying they attacked Samuel Perrin Taylor, 19, "to get even with somebody for what they did to Lucy." Taylor, waylaid on a campus side street, was not seriously injured.

There were 613 people killed in New York City traffic accidents in 1955.

Part Of 43,000 Laid-Off Workers Asked To Return

DETROIT, March 2 — UP—The first of 43,000 laid-off workers in the automobile industry were recalled to their jobs Friday to help turn out automobiles for the expected normal spring upswing in sales.

Packard division of Studebaker-Packard said it would resume "normal production" Monday. Packard has been shut down since late January and 5,500 workers have been idle.

The Packard recall of workers was the first since production cutbacks and layoffs started early in the year. In addition to the estimated 43,000 who have been laid off, thousand of others have been affected at one time or another by short work weeks.

In addition to the 5,500 Packard workers, an additional 5,400 Plymouth workers had been scheduled for recall next Monday. But Plymouth said late Friday the workers wouldn't be brought back as scheduled.

The recall of the Packard workers made it appear that the 43,000 lay-off mark would be the high mark at least for the present. There have been no new layoffs in the past few weeks and the recall of Packard workers came on the heels of a jump in production this week and scheduling of a jump of 10 per cent of production during March.

Alabamans Hit

now has a divorce pending from her husband, Edward Hudson, who said Thursday that their separation was planned so his wife could enter the all-white school.

The suits charged that Hudson also was being paid $300 monthly by the NAACP.

Others named as defendants in the suits were NAACP special counsel Thurgood Marshall and attorneys Constance Motley and Arthur Shores.

Each of the four suits asked $1 million in damages. They were filed in circuit court here and the defendants were ordered to answer them within 30 days.

The suits charged that Lucy's allegations concerning a conspiracy between the plaintiffs and the university "were false and were known to be false by the defendant Lucy at the time she filed said motion."

The plaintiffs claimed damages from the defendants for the alleged wrong plus "special damages for loss of time, for the mental pain and anguish. . .for annoyance and inconvenience. . .for the expense. . .in employing counsel."

The four plaintiffs were arrested by Tuscaloosa police on the morning of Feb. 6 in connection with the campus riot that preceded Lucy's exclusion from classes. Each was charged with disorderly conduct.

The four plaintiffs were named by Lucy as "outsiders" who she said conspired with university officals to create riots that led to her suspension from Alabama.

The plaintiffs were Ed Watts, Earl Watts, Kenneth Thompson and R. E. Chambliss. Charges against them were dismissed at a federal court hearing Wednesday after Marshal asked that the complaint be dropped.

The four plaintiffs all had been named in Lucy's contempt suit as "outsiders."

The damage suits were based largely on the same grounds that the university listed in expelling the Negro coed — that she had brought charges she couldn't prove. Lucy had charged the university "condoned" action of outsiders and had "intentionally permitted" demonstrators to assimilate" an air of riot and disorder to provide an excuse for her suspension. She said the real reason she was rejected was that she is a Negro.

Marshall later admitted he amended Lucy's contempt suit to delate the conspiracy charges because they could not be proved.

Marshall said in New York following the filing of the damage suits that he would make no statement until he had seen the legal papers involved.

Another Rabid Dog Is Reported Here

Another Ouachita parish dog was found to have had rabies this week, Dr. Carroll Summer, director if the local health unit, said Friday.

He said the dog, owned by Samuel Hixon, Jr., of Swartz, was reported sick Wednesday. It was picked up and impounded, but died the same day, he said.

The health unit's laboratory tested the dog's head for rabies and reported that the test was positive.

Dr. Summer warned that, although it was not thought that the dog bit anyone, residents in the Swartz area should have their dogs vaccinated and watched closely for the next week or 10 days.

Woman Plans

her decision to continue her fight at a news conference at the headquarters here fo the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Several policemen were posted outside the building but there were no incidents.

The university board of trustees announced Thursday that Lucy had been "permanently expelled" because of her "baseless" charges that university officials had conspired with student rioters to drive her from the campus so she could be barred from the campus on grounds of her own safety.

"I have been advised by my lawyers that there are legal steps available to me to test the validity or invalidity of this latest action of the board of trustees. I have, therefore, authorized them to take whatever steps are necessary for this puruose," Lucy said.

There was no immediate indication of what steps Lucy would take.

Her attorney, NAACP special counsel Thurgood Marshall accompanied her to the news conference and left with her immediately afterwards without making a statement. Earlier, Marshall said he wiuld confer with other attorneys before deciding the next move for the Negro coed.

Lucy said she was "completely disheartened" by her explusion, but intended to return to Birmingham "within the next week."

"I came to New York for the dual purpose of consulting doctors and to get a rest from the terrific strain I have been under since this case began," Lucy said in a prepared statement which she read at the conference.

She read her statement nervously and would not answer newsmen's questions.

Meanwhile, in Tuscaloosa, home of Alabama University, two Negro brothers, who attacked a white university student during the height of the tension created by Lucy's appearance at the school last month, were indicted for "assault with intent to murder."

The brothers, John and Arthur Washington, were quoted as saying they attacked Samuel Perrin Taylor, 19, "to get even with somebody for what they did to Lucy." Taylor, waylaid on a campus side street, was not seriously injured.

There were 643 people killed in New York City traffic accidents in 1955.

Part Of 43,000 Laid-Off Workers Asked To Return

DETROIT, March 2 — UP—The first of 43,000 laid-off workers in the automobile industry were recalled to their jobs Friday to help turn out automobiles for the expected normal spring upswing in sales.

Packard division of Studebaker-Packard said it would resume "normal production" Monday. Packard has been shut down since late January and 5,500 workers have been idle.

The Packard recall of workers was the first since production cutbacks and layoffs started early in the year. In addition to the estimated 43,000 who have been laid off, thousand of others have been affected at one time or another by short work weeks.

In addition to the 5,500 Packard workers, an additional 5,400 Plymouth workers had been scheduled for recall next Monday. But Plymouth said late Friday the workers wouldn't be brought back as scheduled.

The recall of the Packard workers made it appear that the 43,000 lay-off mark would be the high mark at least for the present. There have been no new layoffs in the past few weeks and the recall of Packard workers came on the heels of a jump in production this week and scheduling of a jump of 10 per cent of production during March.

Alabamans Hit

now has a divorce pending from her husband, Edward Hudson, who said Thursday that their separation was planned so his wife could enter the all-white school.

The suits charged that Hudson also was being paid $300 monthly by the NAACP.

Others named as defendants in the suits were NAACP special counsel Thurgood Marshall and attorneys Constance Motley and Arthur Shores.

Each of the four suits asked $1 million in damages. They were filed in circuit court here and the defendants were ordered to answer them within 30 days.

The suits charged that Lucy's allegations concerning a conspiracy between the plaintiffs and the university "were false and were known to be false by the defendant Lucy at the time she filed said motion."

The plaintiffs claimed damages from the defendants for the alleged wrong plus "special damages for loss of time, for the mental pain and anguish. . .for annoyance and inconvenience. . .for the expense. . .in employing counsel."

The four plaintiffs were arrested by Tuscaloosa police on the morning of Feb. 6 in connection with the campus riot that preceded Lucy's exclusion from classes. Each was charged with disorderly conduct.

The four plaintiffs were named by Lucy as "outsiders" who she said conspired with university officals to create riots that led to her suspension from Alabama.

The plaintiffs were Ed Watts, Earl Watts, Kenneth Thompson and R. E. Chambliss. Charges against them were dismissed at a federal court hearing Wednesday after Marshal asked that the complaint be dropped.

The four plaintiffs all had been named in Lucy's contempt suit as "outsiders."

The damage suits were based largely on the same grounds that the university listed in expelling the Negro coed — that she had brought charges she couldn't prove. Lucy had charged the university "condoned" action of outsiders and had "intentionally permitted" demonstrators to assimilate" an air of riot and disorder to provide an excuse for her suspension. She said the real reason she was rejected was that she is a Negro.

Marshall later admitted he amended Lucy's contempt suit to delate the conspiracy charges because they could not be proved.

Marshall said in New York following the filing of the damage suits that he would make no statement until he had seen the legal papers involved.

Another Rabid Dog Is Reported Here

Another Ouachita parish dog was found to have had rabies this week, Dr. Carroll Summer, director if the local health unit, said Friday.

He said the dog, owned by Samuel Hixon, Jr., of Swartz, was reported sick Wednesday. It was picked up and impounded, but died the same day, he said.

The health unit's laboratory tested the dog's head for rabies and reported that the test was positive.

Dr. Summer warned that, although it was not thought that the the dog bit anyone, residents in the Swartz area should have their dogs vaccinated and watched closely for the next week or 10 days.

Highlights From The Ticker Tape

The market closed its best week yesterday with averages in industrials, railroads and utilities all up sharply.

Westinghouse Electric Corporation has announced that it has been awarded a $22,750,000 contract by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics for fire control systems that track targets electronically for fighter aircraft.

A Federal Grand Jury in Chicago Friday, returned criminal and civil anti-trust indictments against J. P. Seeburg Corp., Chicago, the nation's largest juke box manufacturer.

American Motors Corp. announced that effective next Wednesday, all purchasers of its 1956 auto models will get free accident insurance policies. The details will be given next Tuesday company officials said yesterday.

It was said that Warner Brothers Pictures may sell 750 feature films, all made prior to 1948, and an undisclosed number of short subjects to PRM, Inc. for $21 million.

According to reports, Petroleum products have been in greater demand in 1955 than ever before. Gasoline has increased about six per cent and Oil was in even greater demand with production up seven per cent.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP) —Grains ended with modest gains on the Board of Trade today, only oats failing to show any strength. Dealings slackened from the very fast pace of several previous days this week.

Wheat closed 1¼-1⅜ higher, corn ⅝-1½ higher, oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, rye ½-1¼ higher, soybeans ½ lower to 2½ higher and lard 12 to 22 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Stocks Advance To New Record High In Average

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) —The stock market pounded ahead to a new record high today with a strong advance led by the oils.

It was the second day of booming prices since President Eisenhower said he would run again.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, yardstick for advance, was up $1.40 at $181.60. That is 10 cents above the previous records.

The market last Sept. 23 capped a long advance with the average at $181.50. Then it plunged in a major reaction on the news of the President's heart attack. It recovered just as swiftly, and on Dec. 5 and 6 the AP average again stood at $181.50 to mark the end of the recovery phase.

After the market worked lower until about two weeks ago. Then it started a brisk rise in the belief that President Eisenhower would run again.

Enshusiasm based on political considerations thus joined with those who bought on good business news, and the market's response was a record high jump.

Today's market started higher and kept right on going up to a strong close. Oils were in the forefront today as well as yesterday.

With the AP average of 60 stocks up $1.40 at $181.60, the industrial component was ahead $1.60 at a new high of $258.60, rails were up $1.80 at $138.00, and the utilities were ahead 30 cents at $74.20.

The list was composed of 1,159 individual issues of which 648 were higher and 295 lower with 80 new highs and 5 new lows.

Volume expanded on the rise and came to 2,680,000 shares as compared with 2,410,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were steady. U. S. governments were higher in the over-the-counter market.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) —Cotton futures closed unchanged to $1 a bale higher today.

Tightness in free supply of spot cotton and completion by the C.C.C. of the sale of one million bales of cotton under its first special export program created favorable sentiment among traders.

Traders figured a substantial amount of cotton will still have to be drawn down from loan stocks to round out supplies for the current crop season. There were no March transferable notices issued. The C.C.C. sold 109,578 bales of export cotton this week, with the price for the bast quality middling 15-16 inch at 25.60 cents a pound.

This completed the special export program. Another and broader one is scheduled to get under way soon involving all of the government's owned cotton stocks.

Prices were firmer in light trading today with buying principally on price fixing orders with some scattered covering. Recent liquidation appears to have run its course for the moment, and selling was therefore light allowing the market to make moderate advances in spite of the lighter trading volume today. March closed unchanged with the rest of the market 12 to 20 points up. Liverpool futures closed with gains of from 35 to 85 penny points. At the Liverpool close with Sterling at 280 23-32 the differences between New York and Liverpool were March 624 points, May 582, July 541, all New York over.

United States Department of Agriculture officials today announced an extension of delivery deadlines for cotton sold under public law 480 to September 30. We do not have any official confirmation that this extension would allow cotton sold by the CCC for export after August 1 to be applied against these sales.

CCC announced sales of cotton for export this week totaled 109,578 bales and the average price for middling 15-16 was 25.50 cents.

Cotton goods market was easier today with 80 squares selling in small quantities in second hands at 19¾ cents and quotes for second quarter at 19½ cents.

Stocks Advance To New Record High In Average

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) —The stock market pounded ahead to a new record high today with a strong advance led by the oils.

It was the second day of booming prices since President Eisenhower said he would run again.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, yardstick for advance, was up $1.40 at $181.60. That is 10 cents above the previous records.

The market last Sept. 23 capped a long advance with the average at $181.50. Then it plunged in a major reaction on the news of the President's heart attack. It recovered just as swiftly, and on Dec. 5 and 6 the AP average again stood at $181.50 to mark the end of the recovery phase.

After the market worked lower until about two weeks ago. Then it started a brisk rise in the belief that President Eisenhower would run again.

Enshusiasm based on political considerations thus joined with those who bought on good business news, and the market's response was a record high jump.

Today's market started higher and kept right on going up to a strong close. Oils were in the forefront today as well as yesterday.

With the AP average of 60 stocks up $1.40 at $181.60, the industrial component was ahead $1.60 at a new high of $258.60, rails were up $1.80 at $138.00, and the utilities were ahead 30 cents at $74.20.

The list was composed of 1,159 individual issues of which 648 were higher and 295 lower with 80 new highs and 5 new lows.

Volume expanded on the rise and came to 2,680,000 shares as compared with 2,410,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were steady. U. S. governments were higher in the over-the-counter market.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) —Cotton futures closed unchanged to $1 a bale higher today.

Tightness in free supply of spot cotton and completion by the C.C.C. of the sale of one million bales of cotton under its first special export program created favorable sentiment among traders.

Traders figured a substantial amount of cotton will still have to be drawn down from loan stocks to round out supplies for the current crop season. There were no March transferable notices issued. The C.C.C. sold 109,578 bales of export cotton this week, with the price for the bast quality middling 15-16 inch at 25.60 cents a pound.

This completed the special export program. Another and broader one is scheduled to get under way soon involving all of the government's owned cotton stocks.

Prices were firmer in light trading today with buying principally on price fixing orders with some scattered covering. Recent liquidation appears to have run its course for the moment, and selling was therefore light allowing the market to make moderate advances in spite of the lighter trading volume today. March closed unchanged with the rest of the market 12 to 20 points up. Liverpool futures closed with gains of from 35 to 85 penny points. At the Liverpool close with Sterling at 280 23-32 the differences between New York and Liverpool were March 624 points, May 582, July 541, all New York over.

United States Department of Agriculture officials today announced an extension of delivery deadlines for cotton sold under public law 480 to September 30. We do not have any official confirmation that this extension would allow cotton sold by the CCC for export after August 1 to be applied against these sales.

CCC announced sales of cotton for export this week totaled 109,578 bales and the average price for middling 15-16 was 25.50 cents.

Cotton goods market was easier today with 80 squares selling in small quantities in second hands at 19¾ cents and quotes for second quarter at 19½ cents.

Neville Girls Drop Minden, 56-39, In Cage Playoff

Zoll, Nubles Lead Monroe's Sextet; Guarding Strong

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The Neville High School girls made one more step toward the state double-A championship basketball crown last night by halting the Crimson Tide of Minden High, 56-38, in the N.H.S. gym. The girls from Minden were outscored in every quarter except the first when the Tidettes managed to jump off to a 13 to 11, lead.

When play was resumed both teams were out for the kill, Minden knowing their edge would have to be increased to withstand the pressure of the ever-fighting Neville lasses, and the Tigers hitting back hard as their chance at the state champs slot was sliding away. Coach Noona Kennard of Neville sent her guards out to stop the roar of the Tide and instructed her flashing forwards to pull their title chances out of the Red Wave. The Mindenettes had fallen behind 22-20 at the end of the period. They were never to regain their advantage.

Lynn Zoll paved the way for the Tiger victory with her 25 points and Jo Ann Nubles added 22 to the Neville total. For Minden, "Hilly" Aarons hooped 19 baskets and Bonnie White tossed in 16 scratches.

Minden was eliminated from the state-wide race for the AA championship via this defeat. They had been runner-up of district one of the double-A schools.

Neville walked into the position of No. 1 team in the second district, since no other 2-A schools fielded a girls' basketball team. Through last night's win they have earned the right to stay in the running and advance to a sectional playoff.

Baskin's Sextet Eliminates Baker Girls, 56 To 49

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (Special) — Baskin High School's cagerettes, defending state Class B champions, came from behind in the third quarter tonight to defeat Walker High School and cinch a spot in the state Class B grand finale, 56-49.

The 1956 Baskin girls, true to a near fabulous Baskin High School basketball past, overtook the Baker girls in the third period behind a fast 16-point scoring show by their star forward, Jo Ann Graves. Miss Graves accounted for a grand total of 38 points in the game.

Baskin led 14-12 at the end of the first but Baker fought back for a 25-23 halftime edge. Then came the big third period when Baskin posted 18 points 16 by Graves, to surge ahead 41-34 and ice the game.

Baskin's big six went all the way in the game — Graves, Linda Lord and Bobbye Fletcher in the scoring slots, and Virginia Coronado, Patsy Jarrette and Jane Lyles holding down the Baker offensive.

Baskin will play Mangham in a contest for the state Class B title some time next week.

Inside BASEBALL TRAINING CAMPS

DODGERS

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 2—UP—Captain Pee Wee Reese of the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers pulled up lame Friday after his second workout of the spring and trainer Harold Wendler said he doubted if the 36-year-old shortstop would be able to participate in Saturday's drills.

Reese, starting his 17th season with the Dodgers, dived for a ground ball during the daily infield drill and his right foot slipped from under him. He hobbled off the field, took a shower and said he felt relieved. But after a session on the training table he was limping badly again.

Wendler described the injury as "pulled muscle in the lower section of his back." He did not believe it serious but added that Pee Wee would probably "have to take it easy for several days."

Several other Dodgers were treated for injuries. Jackie Robinson, the veteran Brooklyn star who reported for his first workout Friday, had to have Dr. Wendler work on a bruise above his right ankle which he suffered when a fan accidently kicked him Thursday at a golf tournament in Miami. Robinson, however, was not prevented from working out and when he stepped on the scales after the drills he weighed 212 pounds 18 pounds lighter than what he opened at last season.

Ralph Mauriello, a rookie righthander from North Hollywood, Calif., escaped serious injury when he was hit in the head by a line drive while pitching batting practice to catcher Herb Olson.

CUBS

MESA, Ariz., March 2 — UP—Warren Hacker, veteran right hander of the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, has convinced Manager Stan Hack he's ready for a banner season. In five innings of pitching in intra-squad games he has given up only two hits, both singles.

Hacker worked three innings Friday on a yield of one hit, struck out three and walked one as he led the Blades to a 3-2 victory over the Martins in a six-inning game.

GIANTS

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 2—UP—The New York Giants, looking for help in the pitching department, were especially impressed Friday with the work of rookies Ben Wilber and Erne Broglio. Wilber has a fine sinker ball that can be developed into his best pitch, said pitching Coach Bucky Walters.

Broglio, who was a strikeout artist at Stockton in the California State League last season, is especially fast and has good control.

"He was standing them on their ears in batting practice," said Manager Bill Rigney.

RED SOX

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2—UP—The Boston Red Sox buzzed Friday over the spirited pitching of veteran southpaw Mel Parnell, who seems fully recovered from a series of ailments which have kept him sub-par for the past two seasons.

Parnell pitched for some time Friday and the hitters were talking about the snap of his slider and the zip on his fast ball.

"I've never felt better," the enthused Parnell said.

Last season he suffered from a sore arm and a ripped knee cartilege and in 1954 he suffered a broken right wrist.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 2—UP—Roy Sievers was the only member of the Washington Senators missing Friday when the perennially-tardy Cuban contingent finally made its appearance.

Included in the group were Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual, the pitchers who finished 1-2 in the Cuban League this winter; outfielder Carlos Paula who batted .299 for the Senators last year; Jose Valdivielso, the shortstop who did a fine job as a rookie last season, and rookie Julio Becquer a first baseman.

Sievers has been given permission ot report late because of the illness of his mother. He is expected to sign upon arrival in camp.

ATHLETICS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2 — UP—The Kansas City Athletics moved through their second day of spring training Friday with another morning - afternoon session on fundamentals and batting drills.

Manager Lou Boudreau emphasized that conditioning is the most important thing to his club right now and plans to use the same routine for the remainder of the week.

PIRATES

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2—UP—Outfielder Rodero Clemente flew into the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp from Puerto Rico Friday and signed his contract after a brief conference with Branch Rickey Jr., thus bringing all the Buccos into the fold.

Former General Manager Branch Rickey, who now is advisor to General Manager Joe Brown, paid a visit to the Pirate camp at the request of Manager Bobby Bragan.

Bragan wanted Rickey to work with Frank Thomas, and Corky Glamp on their hitting and Rickey spent an hour with them in the practice batting cage.

TIGER

LAKELAND, Fla., March 2 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today appeared almost ready to trade off their regular second baseman of last season, Fred Hatfield, for Jim Bridewesser of the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers was reported to have put a tentative stamp of approval on the deal, but said he wanted to make a few more inquiries about Bridewesser's second base work before giving a final decision.

Neither one has any particular hitting reputation. Hatfield averaging .232 last season and .241 lifetime. Bridewesser, used in only 34 games, hit .207 last season and has a .269 lifetime average.

BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Rumors persisted in the Milwaukee Braves' camp that utility infielder Jack Dittmer, who signed his 1956 contract yesterday, will be used as trade bait.

There is a chance that the 28-year-old second baseman from Elkader, Iowa, will be one of the talking points for a trade between the Braves and the Giants or the Phillies.

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2 (AP)—Casey Stengel today ordered a pair of intra-squad games for the next Tuesday and Thursday, with the idea of getting an early start on settling the shortstop problem on his New York Yankees.

Eight young pitchers will be used and seven of the nine shortstop aspirants will see service, with only veterans Phil Rizzuto and Billy Hunter excused.

Ouachita Girls Shade Jennings By 59-54 Count

JENNINGS, La., March 2, (Special) — The Ouachita Parish High School girls' basketball team of Monroe, bidding for the Louisiana triple-A championship eliminated Jennings High, 59-54 here tonight in a bi-district playoff game. Jennings' girls are champions of the southwest district, and Ouachita was runner-up to West Monroe in the north district.

Donna Holdeman led Ouachita with 29 points, followed by Peggy Long with 18, and Betty Lee with 12. Coach Mary Lea George's visitors also showed some steady guarding by Virginia Lee, Shirley Cooper, and Mary Welch.

18 Colts Ready For Rich Santa Anita Derby Run

ARCADIA, Calif., March 2 —(AP)— Santa Anita stages its richest and one of the most unpredictable derbies in its history tomorrow. A field of 18 3-year-old colts was entered today in the 19th running of the feature.

The number is the second Highest to the 21 who raced in the 1937 derby and if all 18 answer the bell along about 7:10 p.m. (central standard time) the purse will be worth a gross $158,800.

There has been no standout sophomore developed in the derby division here this winter, but the entry of Rex C. Ellsworth's Terrang and Like Magic doubtless will be the mild betting favorite.

The Santa Anita Derby has produced three of the past four winners in the Kentucky Derby, Hill Gail in 1952, Determine in 1954 and Ellsworth's Swaps last year, but the chances of another derby sensation emerging from this race appear slim.

Leading candidates tomorrow in addition to Terrang and Like Magic, the latter a full brother of Swaps include Charles Turner's Fathers Risk, Miss Nancy Kerr's Family Album, the Barclay stable's Polly's Jet, Llangollen farm's Social Outcast and Neil S. McCarthy's Irish youngster, Prince of Greine.

Others entered, any one of whom could win the mile and one-eighth scramble, are Eddie Schmidt, Sickles Honey, Will of Allah, Count Elie, The Great Mark, Forthebest, Spring Boy, More Glory, The Chaplain, Proselyte and Blen Host.

If 18 start, the winner will earn $111,700.

Each candicate will carry scale weight of 118 pounds, which could be the key to the outcome and a main factor for the popularity of Terrang.

Bankston Hoops 31 As Winnsboro Eliminates Many

WINNSBORO, La., March 2 — (Special)—The Winnsboro Wildcat quintet, sparked by Jerry Bankston's 31-point production, eliminated Many High, 73-60, in a bi-district Class A championship playoff game here tonight.

Winnsboro was runner-up to Lake Providence, already eliminated by LaSalle of Olla, for the district 2-A title. Many was the champion of 1-A.

Many's leading scorers were Donald Scaife, with 16 points, and Kenny Hildebrand, 15.

The Winnsboro boys' triumph brought a measure of revenge for last night's action when Many's girls defeated Winnsboro's defending state champion sextet, 38-27, in their bi-district playoff.

Grosscup Sparks Wave's 81 To 68 Win Over Tigers

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 (AP) — Calvin Grosscup scored 24 points tonight in leading Tulane to an 81-68 Southeastern Conference victory over Louisiana State and breaking a one-season scoring mark for the victors.

Gross cup's one-hand push shot with five minutes left boosted his season's total to 399 points, one more than Mel Payton got for the Greenies in the 1950-51 season.

RUSTON, La., March 2 (Special) — The Ruston High School Bearcats, champions of district 2-AA, repulsed a serious challenge from Bossier City's 'Cats here tonight to turn back the invaders before a capacity crowd, 56-54, in their bi-district playoff game. Bossier was runner-up for the 1-AA title.

There was a three-way tie for individual high scoring honors as two Ruston aces, Bobby James and "Dupey" Cobb, and Bossier's Mark Lattier each registered 16 points in a game that was frequently tied with the lead changing hands often.

Ruston travels to Alexandria next Tuesday night to meet the Menard Memorial High School Eagles in their next stop toward a possible state championship.

Merkle, Noted For Boner That Cost Flag, Dies At 67

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP) — Fred Merkle, former major league baseball player best remembered for a boner which cost the New York Giants a pennant, died today.

Mark W. Curry Jr. of Baggett-McIntosh Funeral Directors said Merkle died in bed of natural causes but he said the family asked that no information be given to newspapers.

Merkle had been in good health and only yesterday was seen in a neighborhood grocery.

Merkle, 67, was in the majors from 1907 to 1926, playing with the Giants, Dodgers, Cubs and Yankees, but he was best known for the play that cost the Giants the National League pennant in 1908.

In the last month of the season the Giants and Cubs played an important game at the Polo Grounds on which the outcome of the pennant race practically depended. In the ninth inning with Merkle on first, Harry (Moose) McCormick on third and two out, Al Bridwell singled the winning run home.

Merkle neglected to run to second, turning away toward the clubhouse when McCormick crossed the plate. Johnny Evers, Chicago second baseman, noticed that Merkle failed to touch second, took the ball from center fielder Artie Hofman, stepped on second and then claimed a force play. He was upheld by umpire Hank O'Day.

The victory was thrown out by the league and the two teams wound up the season in a tie. In the famous playoff, the Cubs won to take the pennant.

A partner in a firm manufacturing artificial fishing baits here, Merkle was an avid bridge and chess player. He played in a bridge game last night.

He is survived by the widow and three daughters, Mrs. L. J. Robinson, Pierson, Fla.; Mrs. John Kasbaum, Searcy, Ark., and Jeanette Merkle, Los Angeles, Calif.

Jena Dethrones Springhill Girls In Title Playoff

JENA, La., March 2 (Special)—Louisiana will have a new Class AA state girls basketball champion when the smoke clears from the playoff picture. The defending champion Springhill High sextet, despite a great show of second half power, fell before the Lady Giants of Jena High, 47 to 46, here tonight in one of the finest girls' games Jena fans have ever seen.

Jena enjoyed a 23-14 lead at the half of their regional playoff contest, but Springhill came to life in the third quarter and gained a tie midway of the quarter. The visitors finally went ahead, but Jena fought back for a 37-33 lead going into the final period.

With a minute and five seconds to go, "Sister" Alley hooped two foul shots to send Springhill into a 46-45 lead and went into a freeze. With less than a minute left, Springhill was charged with a double dribble. Tasca Gray, throwing in for Jena, passed to Violet Austin who charged in for the lay-up that won the game with ten seconds left.

Miss Austin was high scorer with 32 points, supported by 15 from Eula McCarthy. Miss Alley led Springhill with 23, and Dendy backed her with 15.

Doris Bigner, Jena candidate for all-state honors, was outstanding at guard for the Lady Giants as they notched their 17th victory in 19 games.

The champion of district six is playing the district seven runner-up with the winner to face the champion of district five. Jena next meets the winner of this series.

4-Horse Battle Promised In New Orleans Handicap

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 (AP) — The $50,000-added New Orleans Handicap tomorrow shapes up as a battle between the blazing early speed of Find and Sea O Erin and the stretch charges of Wise Margin, Smoke Screen and Mister Black.

The weatherman promised hands off with partly cloudy and mild forecasts and little likelihood if enough rain to alter track conditions at the Fair Grounds. While all five leading contenders are capable off-track performers, a muddy track could hurt the favored Find.

The Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt speedster looks like the horse to catch, in more ways than one. The front-running son of Discovery, favored in the early line at 3-1, undoubtedly will cut out a fast pace and will be the prime target of the stretch runners.

Sea O Erin, winner of the New Orleans last year and half of the Hasty House Farm entry, will give Find a battle for the early lead in trying to simply matters for his late-finishing running mate, Mister Black.

The long run through the stretch of the mile and one-eighth event promises to be hot with Smoke Screen and Wise Margin coming from behind with Mister Black.

If the 12 expected started go postward, the race will gross $62,800 with $48,000 or so going to the winner.

Four of this year's top jockeys will match wits, with Eric Guerin on Find, Willie Hartack on Sea O Erin, Robert Lee Baird on C.L. Dupuy's Galdar, Johnny Heckman on Reverie Knoll Farm's Smoke Screen and Bobby Ussery on Sam Tufano's Wise Margin. All but Guerin are in the top six in the national riding derby.

Wise Margin, runnerup to Sea O Erin in last year's running of the New Orleans, turned in a good fourth place finish in last week's $18,750 Letellier Handicap. Smoke Screen, winner of the New Orleans in 1953, indicated he's back in shape with victory in an overnight event earlier this week.

The muscular Galdar won the recent $13,000 LeComte handicap at the Fair Grounds, but was a disappointing second to outsider Ann's Love in the $18,750 Letellier Memorial last week.

Among the outsiders, H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky is given the best chance with James L. Paddock's Nonnie Jo the dark horse.

The probable field with riders and weight assignments include Find (119); Sea O Erin (119); Mister Black (114); Smoke Screen (113); Galdar (117); Wise Margin (116); Nonnie Jo, no boy (111); Ja, Ja, the other half of the Paddock Entry (111); Happy Go Lucky, L. C. Cook (110); Dixiana Farms Make Ready, no boy (109); T. P. Morgan's Bertie, no boy, (114) and E. V. Landaiche's Jim's Whim (106).

Mangham Checks Kentwood, Gains State 'B' Finals

KENTWOOD, La., March 2 — (Special) — The Mangham High School girls set the stage for an all-Franklin parish state championship Class B basketball final tonight by defeating Kentwood's sextet, 54-48, in their state semi-final playoff battle.

Mangham thus must face the high-geared Baskin girls of their home parish, probably Tuesday night, at Mangham to decide the state championship which has been successfully defended by Baskin for nearly ten years. Baskin won tonight over Walker High of Baker in the other semi-final.

Kathleen Arrant, looking more like all-state talent than ever hooped 32 points for Mangham tonight, getting 18-point support from Rosalyn Thames, and four points from Carolyn Walters for almost the margin of victory.

Mangham also showed exceptional guarding by Patsy King, Betty June Ross, and Helen Templeton.

Williams was high scorer for Kentwood with 32, followed by Elizey with 13, and Ott with three.

Big 10 Approves Continued Rose Bowl Agreement

EAST LANSING, Mich., March 2 —UP—The Big Ten voted Friday in favor of continuation of its Rose Bowl agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference subject to the approval of the facilities of all conference members.

The conference did not specify a term for the agreement, which would be the fourth to be made with the Pacific Coast Conference. The initial agreement was for a five-year term and two renewals each for three years.

The present contract expires after the next game, Jan. 1, 1957.

The conference also voted unanimously in favor of the proposed NCAA plan for football television, calling for eight games on a national network and five on a regional network, and authorized the athletic directors to sell the conference rights for regional TV.

Bill Reed, assistant commissioner and spokesman for the Big Ten, said the Rose Bowl agreement was approved by a "majority" vote and was not unanimous.

It was believed that at least three schools — probably Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northwestern —voted against the extension. All three have been opposed to the Rose Bowl pact in the past.

Neville Girls Drop Minden, 56-39, In Cage Playoff

Zoll, Nubles Lead Monroe's Sextet; Guarding Strong

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The Neville High School girls made one more step toward the state double-A championship basketball crown last night by halting the Crimson Tide of Minden High, 56-39, in the N.H.S. gym. The girls from Minden were outscored in every quarter except the first when the Tidettes managed to jump off to a 13 to 11, lead.

When play was resumed both teams were out for the kill, Minden knowing their edge would have to be increased to withstand the pressure of the ever-fighting Neville lasses, and the Tigers hitting back hard as their chance at the state champs slot was sliding away. Coach Noona Kennard of Neville sent her guards out to stop the roar of the Tide and instructed her flashing forwards to pull their title chances out of the Red Wave. The Mindenettes had fallen behind 22-20 at the end of the period. They were never to regain their advantage.

Lynn Zoll paved the way for the Tiger victory with her 25 points and Jo Ann Nubles added 22 to the Neville total. For Minden, "Hilly" Aarons hooped 19 baskets and Bonnie White tossed in 16 scratches.

Minden was eliminated from the state-wide race for the AA championship via this defeat. They had been runner-up of district one of the double-A schools.

Neville walked into the position of No. 1 team in the second district, since no other 2-A schools fielded a girls' basketball team. Through last night's win they have earned the right to stay in the running and advance to a sectional playoff.

Baskin's Sextet Eliminates Baker Girls, 56 To 49

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (Special) — Baskin High School's cagerettes, defending state Class B champions, came from behind in the third quarter tonight to defeat Walker High School and cinch a spot in the state Class B grand finale, 56-49.

The 1956 Baskin girls, true to a near fabulous Baskin High School basketball past, overtook the Baker girls in the third period behind a fast 16-point scoring show by their star forward, Jo Ann Graves. Miss Graves accounted for a grand total of 38 points in the game.

Baskin led 14-12 at the end of the first but Baker fought back for a 25-23 halftime edge. Then came the big third period when Baskin posted 18 points, 16 by Graves, to surge ahead 41-34 and ice the game.

Baskin's big six went all the way in the game — Graves, Linda Lord and Bobbye Fletcher in the scoring slots, and Virginia Coronado, Patsy Jarrette and Jane Lyles holding down the Baker offensive.

Baskin will play Mangham in a contest for the state Class B title some time next week.

Inside BASEBALL TRAINING CAMPS

DODGERS

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 2—UP—Captain Pee Wee Reese of the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers pulled up lame Friday after his second workout of the spring and trainer Harold Wendler said he doubted if the 36-year-old shortstop would be able to participate in Saturday's drills.

Reese, starting his 17th season with the Dodgers, dived for a ground ball during the daily infield drill and his right foot slipped from under him. He hobbled off the field, took a shower and said he felt relieved. But after a session on the training table he was limping badly again.

Wendler described the injury as "pulled muscle in the lower section of his badk." He did not believe it serious but added that Pee Wee would probably "have to take it easy for several days."

Several other Dodgers were treated for injuries. Jackie Robinson, the veteran Brooklyn star who reported for his first workout Friday, had to have Dr. Wendler work on a bruise above his right ankle which he sufferel when a fan accidently kicked him Thursday at a golf tournament in Miami. Robinson, however, was not prevented from working out and when he stepped on the scales after the drills he weighed 212 pounds 18 pounds lighter than what he opened at last season.

Ralph Mauriello, a rookie righthander from North Hollywood, Calif., escaped serious injury when he was hit in the head by a line drive while pitching batting practice to catcher Herb Olson.

CUBS

MESA, Ariz., March 2 — UP—Warren Hacker, veteran right hander of the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, has convinced Manager Stan Hack he's ready for a banner season. In five innings of pitching in intra-squad games he has given up only two hits, both singles.

Hacker worked three innings Friday on a yield of one hit, struck out three and walked one as he led the Blades to a 3-2 victory over the Martins in a six-inning game.

GIANTS

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 2—UP—The New York Giants, looking for help in the pitching department, were especially impressed Friday with the work of rookies Ben Wilber and Erne Broglio. Wilber has a fine sinker ball that can be developed into his best pitch, said pitching Coach Bucky Walters.

Broglio, who was a strikeout artist at Stockton in the California State League last season, is especially fast and has good control.

"He was standing them on their ears in batting practice," said Manager Bill Rigney.

RED SOX

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2—UP—The Boston Red Sox buzzed Friday over the spirited pitching of veteran southpaw Mel Parnell, who seems fully recovered from a series of ailments which have kept him sub-par for the past two seasons.

Parnell pitched for some time Friday and the hitters were talking about the snap of his slider and the zip on his fast ball.

"I've never felt better," the enthused Parnell said.

Last season he suffered from a sore arm and a ripped knee cartilege and in 1954 he suffered a broken right wrist.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 2—UP—Roy Sievers was the only member of the Washington Senators missing Friday when the perennially-tardy Cuban contingent finally made its appearance.

Included in the group were Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual, the pitchers who finished 1-2 in the Cuban League this winter; outfielder Carlos Paula who batted .299 for the Senators last year; Jose Valdivielso, the shortstop who did a fine job as a rookie last season, and rookie Julio Becquer a first baseman.

Sievers has been given permission ot report late because of the illness of his mother. He is expected to sign upon arrival in camp.

ATHLETICS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2 — UP—The Kansas City Athletics moved through their second day of spring training Friday with another morning - afternoon session on fundamentals and batting drills.

Manager Lou Boudreau emphasized that conditioning is the most important thing to his club right now and plans to use the same routine for the remainder of the week.

PIRATES

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2—UP—Outfielder Rodero Clemente flew into the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp from Puerto Rico Friday and signed his contract after a brief conference with Branch Rickey Jr., thus bringing all the Buccos into the fold.

Former General Manager Branch Rickey, who now is advisor to General Manager Joe Brown, paid a visit to the Pirate camp at the request of Manager Bobby Bragan.

Bragan wanted Rickey to work with Frank Thomas, and Corky Glamp on their hitting and Rickey spent an hour with them in the practice batting cage.

TIGER

LAKELAND, Fla., March 2 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today appeared almost ready to trade off their regular second baseman of last season, Fred Hatfield, for Jim Brideweser of the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers was reported to have put a tentative stamp of approval on the deal, but said he wanted to make a few more inquiries about Brideweser's second base work before giving a final decision.

Neither one has any particular hitting reputation. Hatfield averaging .232 last season and .241 lifetime. Brideweser, used in only 34 games, hit .207 last season and has a .269 lifetime average.

BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Rumors persisted in the Milwaukee Braves' camp that utility infielder Jack Dittmer, who signed his 1956 contract yesterday, will be used as trade bait.

There is a chance that the 28-year-old second baseman from Elkader, Iowa, will be one of the talking points for a trade between the Braves and the Giants or the Phillies.

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2 (AP)—Casey Stengel today ordered a pair of intra-squad games for the next Tuesday and Thursday, with the idea of getting an early start on settling the shortstop problem on his New York Yankees.

Eight young pitchers will be used and seven of the nine shortstop aspirants will see service, with only veterans Phil Rizzuto and Billy Hunter excused.

Ouachita Girls Shade Jennings By 59-54 Count

JENNINGS, La., March 2, (Special) — The Ouachita Parish High School girls' basketball team of Monroe, bidding for the Louisiana triple-A championship eliminated Jennings High, 59-54 here tonight in a bi-district playoff game. Jennings' girls are champions of the southwest district, and Ouachita was runner-up to West Monroe in the north district.

Donna Holdeman led Ouachita with 29 points, followed by Peggy Long with 18, and Betty Lee with 12. Coach Mary Lea George's visitors also showed some steady guarding by Virginia Lee, Shirley Cooper, and Mary Welch.

18 Colts Ready For Rich Santa Anita Derby Run

ARCADIA, Calif., March 2 —(AP)— Santa Anita stages its richest and one of the most unpredictable derbies in its history tomorrow. A field of 18 3-year-old colts was entered today in the 19th running of the feature.

The number is the second Highest to the 21 who raced in the 1937 derby and if all 18 answer the bell along about 7:10 p.m. (central standard time) the purse will be worth a gross $158,800.

There has been no standout sophomore developed in the derby division here this winter, but the entry of Rex C. Ellsworth's Terrang and Like Magic doubtless will be the mild betting favorite.

The Santa Anita Derby has produced three of the past four winners in the Kentucky Derby, Hill Gail in 1952, Determine in 1954 and Ellsworth's Swaps last year, but the chances of another derby sensation emerging from this race appear slim.

Leading candidates tomorrow in addition to Terrang and Like Magic, the latter a full brother of Swaps include Charles Turner's Fathers Risk, Miss Nancy Kerr's Family Album, the Barclay stable's Polly's Jet, Llangollen farm's Social Outcast and Neil S. McCarthy's Irish youngster, Prince of Greine.

Others entered, any one of whom could win the mile and one-eighth scramble, are Eddie Schmidt, Sickles Honey, Will of Allah, Count Ehic, The Great Man, Forthebest, Spring Boy, More Glory, The Chaplain, Proselyte and Blen Host.

If 18 start, the winner will earn $111,700.

Each candicate will carry scale weight of 118 pounds, which could be the key to the outcome and a main factor for the popularity of Terrang.

Bankston Hoops 31 As Winnsboro Eliminates Many

WINNSBORO, La., March 2 — (Special)—The Winnsboro Wildcat quintet, sparked by Jerry Bankston's 31-point production, eliminated Many High, 73-60, in a bi-district Class A championship playoff game here tonight.

Winnsboro was runner-up to Lake Providence, already eliminated by LaSalle of Olla, for the district 2-A title. Many was the champion of 1-A.

Many's leading scorers were Donald Scaife, with 16 points, and Kenny Hildebrand, 15.

The Winnsboro boys' triumph brought a measure of revenge for last night's action when Many's girls defeated Winnsboro's defending state champion sextet, 38-27, in their bi-district playoff.

Merkle, Noted For Boner That Cost Flag, Dies At 67

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP) — Fred Merkle, former major league baseball player best remembered for a boner which cost the New York Giants a pennant, died today.

Mark W. Curry Jr. of Baggett-McIntosh Funeral Directors said Merkle died in bed of natural causes but he said the family asked that no information be given to newspapers.

Merkle had been in good health and only yesterday was seen in a neighborhood grocery.

Merkle, 67, was in the majors from 1907 to 1926, playing with the Giants, Dodgers, Cubs and Yankees, but he was best known for the play that cost the Giants the National League pennant in 1908.

In the last month of the season the Giants and Cubs played an important game at the Polo Grounds on which the outcome of the pennant race practically depended. In the ninth inning with Merkle on first, Harry (Moose) McCormick on third and two out, Al Bridwell singled the winning run home.

Merkle neglected to run to second, turning away toward the clubhouse when McCormick crossed the plate. Johnny Evers, Chicago second baseman, noticed that Merkle failed to touch second, took the ball from center fielder Artie Hofman, stepped on second and then claimed a force play. He was upheld by umpire Hank O'Day.

The victory was thrown out by the league and the two teams wound up the season in a tie. In the famous playoff, the Cubs won to take the pennant.

A partner in a firm manufacturing artificial fishing baits here, Merkle was an avid bridge and chess player. He played in a bridge game last night.

He is survived by the widow and three daughters, Mrs. L. J. Robinson, Pierson, Fla.; Mrs. John Kasbaum, Searcy, Ark., and Jeanette Merkle, Los Angeles, Calif.

Jena Dethrones Springhill Girls In Title Playoff

JENA, La., March 2 (Special)—Louisiana will have a new Class AA state girls basketball champion when the smoke clears from the playoff picture. The defending champion Springhill High sextet, despite a great show of second half power, fell before the Lady Giants of Jena High, 47 to 46, here tonight in one of the finest girls' games Jena fans have ever seen.

Jena enjoyed a 23-14 lead at the half of their regional playoff contest, but Springhill came to life in the third quarter and gained a tie midway of the quarter. The visitors finally went ahead, but Jena fought back for a 37-33 lead going into the final period.

With a minute and five seconds to go, "Sister" Alley hooped two foul shots to send Springhill into a 46-45 lead and went into a freeze. With less than a minute left, Springhill was charged with a double dribble. Tasca Gray, throwing in for Jena, passed to Violet Austin who charged in for the lay-up that won the game with ten seconds left.

Miss Austin was high scorer with 32 points, supported by 15 from Eula McCarthy. Miss Alley led Springhill with 23, and Dendy backed her with 15.

Doris Bigner, Jena candidate for all-state honors, was outstanding at guard for the Lady Giants as they notched their 17th victory in 19 games.

The champion of district six is playing the district seven runner-up with the winner to face the champion of district five. Jena next meets the winner of this series.

4-Horse Battle Promised In New Orleans Handicap

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 (AP) — The $50,000-added New Orleans Handicap tomorrow shapes up as a battle between the blazing early speed of Find and Sea O Erin and the stretch charges of Wise Margin, Smoke Screen and Mister Black.

The weatherman promised hands off with partly cloudy and mild forecasts and little likelihood if enough rain to alter track conditions at the Fair Grounds. While all five leading contenders are capable off-track performers, a muddy track could hurt the favored find.

The Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt speedster looks like the horse to catch, in more ways than one. The front-running son of Discovery, favored in the early line at 3-1, undoubtedly will cut out a fast pace and will be the prime target of the stretch runners.

Sea O Erin, winner of the New Orleans last year and half of the Hasty House Farm entry, will give Find a battle for the early lead in trying to simply matters for his late-finishing running mate, Mister Black.

The long run through the stretch of the mile and one-eighth event promises to be hot with Smoke Screen and Wise Margin coming from behind with Mister Black.

If the 12 expected started go postward, the race will gross $62,800 with $48,000 or so going to the winner.

Four of this year's top jockeys will match wits, with Eric Guerin on Find, Willie Hartack on Sea O Erin, Robert Lee Baird on C.L. Dupuy's Galdar, Johnny Heckman on Reverie Knoll Farm's Smoke Screen and Bobby Ussery on Sam Tufano's Wise Margin. All but Guerin are in the top six in the national riding derby.

Wise Margin, runnerup to Sea O Erin in last year's running of the New Orleans, turned in a good fourth place finish in last week's $18,750 Letellier Handicap. Smoke Screen, winner of the New Orleans in 1953, indicated he's back in shape with victory in an overnight event earlier this week.

The muscular Galdar won the recent $13,000 LeComte handicap at the Fair Grounds, but was a disappointing second to outsider Ann's Love in the $18,750 Letellier Memorial last week.

Among the outsiders, H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky is given the best chance with James L. Paddock's Nonnie Jo the dark horse.

The probable field with riders and weight assignments include Find (119); Sea O Erin (119); Mister Black (114); Smoke Screen (113); Galdar (117); Wise Margin (116); Nonnie Jo, no boy (111); Ja, Ja, the other half of the Paddock Entry (111); Happy Go Lucky, L. C. Cook (110); Dixiana Farms Make Ready, no boy (109); T. P. Morgan's Bertie, no boy, (114) and E. V. Landaiche's Jim's Whim (106).

Mangham Checks Kentwood, Gains State 'B' Finals

KENTWOOD, La., March 2 — (Special) — The Mangham High School girls set the stage for an all-Franklin parish state championship Class B basketball final tonight by defeating Kentwood's sextet, 54-48, in their state semi-final playoff battle.

Mangham thus must face the high-geared Baskin girls of their home parish, probably Tuesday night, at Mangham to decide the state championship which has been successfully defended by Baskin for nearly ten years. Baskin won tonight over Walker High of Baker in the other semi-final.

Kathleen Arrant, looking more like all-state talent than ever hooped 32 points for Mangham tonight, getting 18-point support from Rosalyn Thames, and four points from Carolyn Walters for almost the margin of victory.

Mangham also showed exceptional guarding by Patsy King, Betty June Ross, and Helen Templeton.

Williams was high scorer for Kentwood with 32, followed by Ellzey with 13, and Ott with three.

Big 10 Approves Continued Rose Bowl Agreement

EAST LANSING, Mich., March 2—UP—The Big Ten voted Friday in favor of continuation of its Rose Bowl agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference subject to the approval of the facilities of all conference members.

The conference did not specify a term for the agreement, which would be the fourth to be made with the Pacific Coast Conference. The initial agreement was for a five-year term and two renewals each for three years.

The present contract expires after the next game, Jan. 1, 1957.

The conference also voted unanimously in favor of the proposed NCAA plan for football television, calling for eight games on a national network and five on a regional network, and authorized the athletic directors to sell the conference rights for regional TV.

Bill Reed, assistant commissioner and spokesman for the Big Ten, said the Rose Bowl agreement was approved by a "majority" vote and was not unanimous.

It was believed that at least three schools — probably Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northwestern —voted against the extension. All three have been opposed to the Rose Bowl pact in the past.

Demaret, Bayer Share Baton Rouge Lead

Furgol, Mayfield, White Stroke Off Pace In 3rd Spot

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (AP) — Veteran Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., pulled into a tie with George Bayer of Cincinnati today at the mid-point in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

Demaret finished with a four-under-par 68 for a two-day total of 137. He played most of the last nine holes in a steady rain.

Bayer, the longest hitter in professional golf, finished just as the heavy rain was starting. The powerful Ohio professional stroked a two under par 70 to go with his 67 yesterday.

Rainclouds hung threateningly over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course for the second day. It drizzled slightly in the morning, eased off and finally turned into a downpour on late finishers. It was the first rain in the five-year history of the tournament.

One stroke back of the leaders were Ed Furgol of St. Louis, Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N. Y., and Buck White of Memphis, all with 138.

Furgol, who was runner-up with a six under par 66 yesterday, had trouble on the back nine and finished with par 72. Mayfield added a 71 to his opening 66 and White shot a 68 to go with his opening 70.

Jackie Burke Jr.,Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., opening day leader with a seven under par 65, skyrocketed to 80 today to fall out of contention.

Burke, obviously troubled by a bad back, soared seven over par with 43 on the first nine, recovered somewhat to shoot a one over par 37 on the last nine.

U. S. open champ Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, who had a dismal 76 opening round, came back with a 67, including a record equaling 31 on the first nine, for a 143 total.

It was the best round of the day.

Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., was low amateur and remained in contention for the title. Funseth added a par 72 to his opening 67 for a 139 title.

Bayer missed a chance to take over an unchallenged lead on the 17th with an approach shot that sailed about 40 yards behind and to the right of the green. He took a one over par five for the hole and a par 36 for the last nine after touring the first nine in 34.

Demaret played steady subpar golf on the first nine with three birdies for a 33, and despite the rain he cut one more stroke from par for a 35 on the backnine.

Baseball, Not Golf, Is Kretlow's Game

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Lou Kretlow, last of the Kansas City A's to sign his 1956 contract, is burning over reports that he thinks more of golf than baseball.

Lou won the annual players tournament just before spring training opened and agrees that he likes the links game but:

"I don't think more of golf than I do of baseball," said the 32-year-old right-hander whom the Athletics purchased from Seattle. "I played two rounds all last summer ......that report started because I got down in the 70s. But if I played golf and scored in the 90s nobody would say anything about it. That's why its unfair."

Lou, who was shipped to the Pacific Coast League after losing four and winning none for Baltimore last season. is optimistic.

"One thing sure," he said., "this has to be my year and I think it will. One thing I like about pitching for the Athletics is that they score runs for their pitchers...... then too, I'm sure I'll get a good chance and that's all I'm asking."

Miss Wright Uses 72 For 1st Round Jacksonville Lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 2 —UP—Mickey Wright, 21-year-old San Diego, Calif., golfer who dropped out of school a year to make the winter golf tour, forged into a slim lead in the Jacksonville Women's Open tournament Friday with a men's par 72 despite driving rains.

The tall California blonde at one time was three strokes under par, but rain on the back nine made the greens too wet for effective putting and she had to settle for a 34-38, one stroke ahead of Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., who went around in 36-37.

Bunched behind the two leaders with 74s in the first round of this 72-hole tournament over the 6,476-yard Hyde Park course were Marlene Bauer, Asheville, N. C.; Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., and Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.

The pre - tourney favorite and leading money winner among members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association thus far this year, Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S. C., was tied with Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, in sixth place with 75.

Majors To Televise 860 Games For $26,000,000

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Major league baseball clubs are going into television bigger than ever this season, with 13 teams putting some 860 games on the air at a total cost of about $26,200,000.

The magazine television age in its March issue reported today that baseball itself would realize $6,200,000 for game rights — $5,200,000 for regular season games and $1,000,000-plus for TV rights to the World Series and All-Star game.

Only three clubs, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh in the National League, and Kansas City of the American League, are without television.

A major trend is the televising of road games, with some 350 "away" contests to be televised to the home folks. Five major league clubs will have more road games on TV than home games.

The survey disclosed that 22 TV sponsors will spend some $12,000,000 for the games, in a record splurge. About half goes directly to the ball clubs.

"To make their pitch at the male consumer, sponsors will spend still another $6 million for additional charges—time, talent and facilities," said the magazine.

"Then, local and regional advertisers are expected to put an estimated $14 million more on the barrel head — to get in on pre-game and post-game TV."

Tobacco, beer, oil, automobile, baking and razor blade companies are the big sponsors.

Baseball also is re-negotiating the World Series and All-Star game contracts, with estimates which would boost the price in the neighborhood of $3,000,000.

There will be a "game of the week" network broadcast again this season, starting April 7 by CBS. The New York Giants and Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox will participate.

Here are the TV plans of major league clubs, number of home games listed first:

National League — Brooklyn, 77 and 25; St. Louis, none and 64; Philadelphia, 23 and 52; New York 77 and none; Cincinnati, 23 and 30; Chicago, 77 and none.

American League — New York, 77 and 6; Cleveland, 34 and 26; Chicago, 54 and none; Boston, 32 and 19; Washington, 24 and 30; Baltimore, 28 and 33; Detroit, 26 and 19.

Santee Status For K. C. Meet Raises 2 Questions

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—The court - ordered return of Wes Santee to the Columbian Mile takes precedence over all other events in the 37th New York Knights of Columbus track meet tomorrow night but today's developments left two big questions unanswered.

They are: will Santee be permitted to run, after all? And, if he is, what will happen to anyone who runs against him?

Jay - Ehret Mahoney, attorney for the Amateur Athletic Union, today filed a show cause order in the Appellate Division asking to have the injunction against the AAU, granted yesterday, set aside. The injunction, signed by State Supreme Court Justice James McNally, stopped the AAU from enforcing its lifetime suspension of Santee.

Today's legal action was put on the calendar for tomorrow morning and if the AAU position is upheld, Santee will not be eligible to run in tomorrow night's meet. The Kansan, now a Marine lieutenant at Quantico, Va., was barred from all amateur competition on Feb. 19 after a hearing on charges that he had accepted excessive expense money. Judge McNally's injunction rendered that suspension ineffective, pending a hearing next Friday.

Although Judge McNally assured Santee's prospective rivals that they also were "under the protection of that order," some of them experienced qualms today, in view of earlier warnings from the AAU.

It was uncertain tonight how many of them might run if Santee does.

The University of Oregon advised Australian Jim Bailey that it would be all right for him to run. But Athletic Director Leo Harris first consulted Pacific Coast Conference representatives who decided Bailey's future "could not be hurt."

Villanova Athletic Director Bud Dudley also sought clarification before deciding whether to allow Ron Delany, star sophomore miler from Ireland, to race Santee.

"We're certainly not going to jeopardize Delany's amateur standing," he said. Manhattan College Coach George Eastment adopted a similar wait-and-see attitude regarding runner Jim Doulin.

Others in the mile field include Fred Dwyer, one of Santee's principal rivals in the past few indoor season; George King of New York University and air force man Ed Kirk, formerly of Georgetown.

Meanwhile, A.A.U. officials refused to make any statement concerning the possibility of future action against any runners who might race against Santee.

Dan Ferris, A.A.U. secretary - treasurer who previously has warned both athletes and meet promoters of possible penalties, merely pointed out that there was a precedent in the appellate division for setting aside Judge McNally's injunction.

In 1930, Poland's Stanislaw Petkiewicz was barred by the A.A.U. The K. of C. obtained an injunction against this ban, but the appelate division ruled seven months later that restraint should not have been issued because the state supreme court had no authority to interfere with the internal affairs of the A.A.U.

Anne Quast Faces Barbara Romack In Tourney Final

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 2 —(AP)—Anne Quast, a teen-ager seeking her first amateur golf circuit victory, and Barbara Romack, an old hand at winning titles, reached the championship round of the South Atlantic Golf Tournament with victories today.

Miss Quast, a sophomore at the University of Washington, eliminated Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., and Miss Romack defeated Jane Nelson of Indianapolis by identical 3 and 2 scores.

"I was hitting the ball better than I have in a long time," said Miss Romack of Sacramento, Calif. "I've been having trouble with a hook but I looked at some pictures of my swing and Babe Moore, club pro, gave me a couple of pointers that got me back down the middle."

Miss Quast, 18-year-old Marysville, Wash., newcomer to the winter tour, played much better than yesterday although she admitted she was "tense" for the first two or three holes.

She was even par for the front nine over the Ellinor Village Country Club course whose 6,133-yardage calls for 71 par.

Miss Romack was one under par.

They meet tomorrow in a 36-hole match for the title. Should Miss Romack win, she would become the second golfer to retire the cup. She won in 1952 and 1953. Virginia Van Wie won three South Atlantics many years ago.

Permission from Solomons was required because of a Solomons-Moore contract for a world title fight with Yolande Pompey at White City Stadium here on June 5.

Barrillari Will Pilot New Iberia Tribe This Year

NEW IBERIA, La., March 2 (AP)—The president of the Port Arthur baseball club today said he would supervise the affairs of the New Iberia team this season in the class C Evangeline League.

Demaret, Bayer Share Baton Rouge Lead

Furgol, Mayfield, White Stroke Off Pace In 3rd Spot

BATON ROUGE, March 2 (AP) — Veteran Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., pulled into a tie with George Bayer of Cincinnati today at the mid-point in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

Demaret finished with a four-under-par 68 for a two-day total of 137. He played most of the last nine holes in a steady rain.

Bayer, the longest hitter in professional golf, finished just as the heavy rain was starting. The powerful Ohio professional stroked a two under par 70 to go with his 67 yesterday.

Rainclouds hung threateningly over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course for the second day. It drizzled slightly in the morning, eased off and finally turned into a downpour on late finishers. It was the first rain in the five-year history of the tournament.

One stroke back of the leaders were Ed Furgol of St. Louis, Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N. Y., and Buck White of Memphis, all with 138.

Furgol, who was runner-up with a six under par 66 yesterday, had trouble on the back nine and finished with par 72. Mayfield added a 71 to his opening 66 and White shot a 68 to go with his opening 70.

Jackie Burke Jr.,Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., opening day leader with a seven under par 65, skyrocketed to 80 today to fall out of contention.

Burke, obviously troubled by a bad back, soared seven over par with 43 on the first nine, recovered somewhat to shoot a one over par 37 on the last nine.

U. S. open champ Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, who had a dismal 76 opening round, came back with a 67, including a record equaling 31 on the first nine, for a 143 total.

It was the best round of the day.

Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., was low amateur and remained in contention for the title. Funseth added a par 72 to his opening 67 for a 139 title.

Bayer missed a chance to take over an unchallenged lead on the 17th with an approach shot that sailed about 40 yards behind and to the right of the green. He took a one over par five for the hole and a par 36 for the last nine after touring the first nine in 34.

Demaret played steady subpar golf on the first nine with three birdies for a 33, and despite the rain he cut one more stroke from par for a 35 on the backnine.

Baseball, Not Golf, Is Kretlow's Game

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Lou Kretlow, last of the Kansas City A's to sign his 1956 contract, is burning over reports that he thinks more of golf than baseball.

Lou won the annual players tournament just before spring training opened and agrees that he likes the links game but:

"I don't think more of golf than I do of baseball," said the 32-year-old right-hander whom the Athletics purchased from Seattle. "I played two rounds all last summer ......that report started because I got down in the 70s. But if I played golf and scored in the 90s nobody would say anything about it. That's why its unfair."

Lou, who was shipped to the Pacific Coast League after losing four and winning none for Baltimore last season. is optimistic.

"One thing sure," he said., "this has to be my year and I think it will. One thing I like about pitching for the Athletics is that they score runs for their pitchers...... then too, I'm sure I'll get a good chance and that's all I'm asking."

Miss Wright Uses 72 For 1st Round Jacksonville Lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 2 —UP—Mickey Wright, 21-year-old San Diego, Calif., golfer who dropped out of school a year to make the winter golf tour, forged into a slim lead in the Jacksonville Women's Open tournament Friday with a men's par 72 despite driving rains.

The tall California blonde at one time was three strokes under par, but rain on the back nine made the greens too wet for effective putting and she had to settle for a 34-38, one stroke ahead of Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., who went around in 36-37.

Bunched behind the two leaders with 74s in the first round of this 72-hole tournament over the 6,476-yard Hyde Park course were Marlene Bauer, Asheville, N. C.; Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., and Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.

The pre - tourney favorite and leading money winner among members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association thus far this year, Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S. C., was tied with Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, in sixth place with 75.

Majors To Televise 860 Games For $26,000,000

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Major league baseball clubs are going into television bigger than ever this season, with 13 teams putting some 860 games on the air at a total cost of about $26,200,000.

The magazine television age in its March issue reported today that baseball itself would realize $6,200,000 for game rights — $5,200,000 for regular season games and $1,000,000-plus for TV rights to the World Series and All-Star game.

Only three clubs, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh in the National League, and Kansas City of the American League, are without television.

A major trend is the televising of road games, with some 350 "away" contests to be televised to the home folks. Five major league clubs will have more road games on TV than home games.

The survey disclosed that 22 TV sponsors will spend some $12,000,000 for the games, in a record splurge. About half goes directly to the ball clubs.

"To make their pitch at the male consumer, sponsors will spend still another $6 million for additional charges—time, talent and facilities," said the magazine.

"Then, local and regional advertisers are expected to put an estimated $14 million more on the barrel head — to get in on pre-game and post-game TV."

Tobacco, beer, oil, automobile, baking and razor blade companies are the big sponsors.

Baseball also is re-negotiating the World Series and All-Star game contracts, with estimates which would boost the price in the neighborhood of $3,000,000.

There will be a "game of the week" network broadcast again this season, starting April 7 by CBS. The New York Giants and Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox will participate.

Here are the TV plans of major league clubs, number of home games listed first:

National League — Brooklyn, 77 and 25; St. Louis, none and 64; Philadelphia, 23 and 52; New York 77 and none; Cincinnati, 23 and 30; Chicago, 77 and none.

American League — New York, 77 and 6; Cleveland, 34 and 26; Chicago, 54 and none; Boston, 32 and 19; Washington, 24 and 30; Baltimore, 28 and 33; Detroit, 26 and 19.

Santee Status For K. C. Meet Raises 2 Questions

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—The court - ordered return of Wes Santee to the Columbian Mile takes precedence over all other events in the 37th New York Knights of Columbus track meet tomorrow night but today's developments left two big questions unanswered.

They are: will Santee be permitted to run, after all? And, if he is, what will happen to anyone who runs against him?

Jay - Ehret Mahoney, attorney for the Amateur Athletic Union, today filed a show cause order in the Appellate Division asking to have the injunction against the AAU, granted yesterday, set aside. The injunction, signed by State Supreme Court Justice James McNally, stopped the AAU from enforcing its lifetime suspension of Santee.

Today's legal action was put on the calendar for tomorrow morning and if the AAU position is upheld, Santee will not be eligible to run in tomorrow night's meet. The Kansan, now a Marine lieutenant at Quantico, Va., was barred from all amateur competition on Feb. 19 after a hearing on charges that he had accepted excessive expense money. Judge McNally's injunction rendered that suspension ineffective, pending a hearing next Friday.

Although Judge McNally assured Santee's prospective rivals that they also were "under the protection of that order," some of them experienced qualms today, in view of earlier warnings from the AAU.

It was uncertain tonight how many of them might run if Santee does.

The University of Oregon advised Australian Jim Bailey that it would be all right for him to run. But Athletic Director Leo Harris first consulted Pacific Coast Conference representatives who decided Bailey's future "could not be hurt."

Villanova Athletic Director Bud Dudley also sought clarification before deciding whether to allow Ron Delany, star sophomore miler from Ireland, to race Santee.

"We're certainly not going to jeopardize Delany's amateur standing," he said. Manhattan College Coach George Eastment adopted a similar wait-and-see attitude regarding runner Jim Doulin.

Others in the mile field include Fred Dwyer, one of Santee's principal rivals in the past few indoor season; George King of New York University and air force man Ed Kirk, formerly of Georgetown.

Meanwhile, A.A.U. officials refused to make any statement concerning the possibility of future action against any runners who might race against Santee.

Dan Ferris, A.A.U. secretary - treasurer who previously has warned both athletes and meet promoters of possible penalties, merely pointed out that there was a precedent in the appellate division for setting aside Judge McNally's injunction.

In 1930, Poland's Stanislaw Petkiewicz was barred by the A.A.U. The K. of C. obtained an injunction against this ban, but the appelate division ruled seven months later that restraint should not have been issued because the state supreme court had no authority to interfere with the internal affairs of the A.A.U.

Anne Quast Faces Barbara Romack In Tourney Final

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 2 —(AP)—Anne Quast, a teen-ager seeking her first amateur golf circuit victory, and Barbara Romack, an old hand at winning titles, reached the championship round of the South Atlantic Golf Tournament with victories today.

Miss Quast, a sophomore at the University of Washington, eliminated Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., and Miss Romack defeated Jane Nelson of Indianapolis by identical 3 and 2 scores.

"I was hitting the ball better than I have in a long time," said Miss Romack of Sacramento, Calif. "I've been having trouble with a hook but I looked at some pictures of my swing and Babe Moore, club pro, gave me a couple of pointers that got me back down the middle."

Miss Quast, 18-year-old Marysville, Wash., newcomer to the winter tour, played much better than yesterday although she admitted she was "tense" for the first two or three holes.

She was even par for the front nine over the Ellinor Village Country Club course whose 6,133-yardage calls for 71 par.

Miss Romack was one under par.

They meet tomorrow in a 36-hole match for the title. Should Miss Romack win, she would become the second golfer to retire the cup. She won in 1952 and 1953. Virginia Van Wie won three South Atlantics many years ago.

Permission from Solomons was required because of a Solomons-Moore contract for a world title fight with Yolande Pompey at White City Stadium here on June 5.

The goal for advance gifts has been set at $600 and Mrs. Peggy Coleman, chapter executive secretary, said that some firms have not sent in their contributions as yet, indicating that this phase of the drive will go over the top this year.

In keeping with a policy set over the years, community chairmen and campaign workers have been named in the various areas of LaSalle parish, with the exception of Olla and Summerville. Chairmen and workers in these two areas will be named "as soon as possible" Bridges said.

Notre Dame Band Concert Slated Here On April 2

The 55-piece University of Notre Dame concert band, directed by Robert F. O'Brien, will present a concert at Neville Auditorium in Monroe on April 2, Mack Hearne, director of the Ouachita Parish High School band, the organization bringing the band here, said Friday.

The concert here will be one of fifteen programs the band will present during its two-week, 3,000-mile spring tour through the Mississippi Valley and Gulf Coast.

This year's concert tour is the ninth the band has made since the war. During this time the organization has played to over 150 audiences an 25,000 mile trip through 37 states and Canada.

Thousands of people from New Hampshire to Texas and Wyoming to Florida have heard the band perform. With the exception of service bands, the Notre Dame concert band is probably the most widely traveled non-professional band in the world.

The organization is especially noted for its spirited, fine quality music and the wide variety of its concerts designed for the enjoyment of all ages and tastes.

The two-hour evening concert in Monroe will consist of a variety of music ranging from the classics through semi-classical Broadway hits and marches to novelties and Dixieland. Several soloists will add to the variety.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Red Cross Drive Opens In LaSalle

JENA, March 2 — (Special) — R. J. (Doc.) Bridges, LaSalle parish campaign chairman for the 1956 Red Cross drive, said that the membership drive and fund raising campaign had been officially launched.

The parish goal this year is $3,870 and already $520 has been collected in advance gifts from business firms and corporations. The goal for advance gifts has been set at $600 and Mrs. Peggy Coleman, chapter executive secretary, said that some firms have not sent in their contributions as yet, indicating that this phase of the drive will go over the top this year.

In keeping with a policy set over the years, community chairmen and campaign workers have been named in the various areas of LaSalle parish, with the exception of Olla and Summerville. Chairmen and workers in these two areas will be named "as soon as possible" Bridges said.

Man Fined For Night Hunting

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 2 (Special) — Arron Griffin, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Jesse McGee, during the recent term of court, when convicted of hunting rabbits at night.

Judge McGee suspended the fine and Griffin paid the cost of court. Rangers Chappel C. Magee and Clyde Schrock made the arrest.

Allin Sproggins, of Readland, Ark., was fined $25 and cost of court by Judge McGee when convicted of hunting without a proper license and with an unplugged gun. In addition to the fine, Judge McGee assessed two costs of court, at a total of $22 against the defendant. Ranger Chappel C. Magee made the arrest.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Notre Dame Band Concert Slated Here On April 2

The 55-piece University of Notre Dame concert band, directed by Robert F. O'Brien, will present a concert at Neville Auditorium in Monroe on April 2, Mack Hearne, director of the Ouachita Parish High School band, the organization bringing the band here, said Friday.

The concert here will be one of fifteen programs the band will present during its two-week, 3,000-mile spring tour through the Mississippi Valley and Gulf Coast.

This year's concert tour is the ninth the band has made since the war. During this time the organization has played to over 150 audiences an 25,000 mile trip through 37 states and Canada.

Thousands of people from New Hampshire to Texas and Wyoming to Florida have heard the band perform. With the exception of service bands, the Notre Dame concert band is probably the most widely traveled non-professional band in the world.

The organization is especially noted for its spirited, fine quality music and the wide variety of its concerts designed for the enjoyment of all ages and tastes.

The two-hour evening concert in Monroe will consist of a variety of music ranging from the classics through semi-classical Broadway hits and marches to novelties and Dixieland. Several soloists will add to the variety.

Trio Ordered To Face Charges In Strike Violence

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—A federal judge today ordered three men removed to Jackson, Miss., on federal charges growing out of last spring's violence - marked strike against Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The order by Judge Joseph Sam Perry applied to Louis Joseph Abbate, 44, and Michael Louis Falcone, 40, both of Chicago and James Shelby, 39, of Silver Springs, Md.

They are charged with conspiracy to interfere with communication lines leased and operated by the government. Authorities said more than 3,000 incidents of major damage involving telephone company property occurred during the 72-day strike.

Charles G. Perry, also indicted in the case is under bond in Mississippi. He is president of the Communications Workers of America local in Jackson.

Trio Ordered To Face Charges In Strike Violence

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—A federal judge today ordered three men removed to Jackson, Miss., on federal charges growing out of last spring's violence - marked strike against Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The order by Judge Joseph Sam Perry applied to Louis Joseph Abbate, 44, and Michael Louis Falcone, 40, both of Chicago and James Shelby, 39, of Silver Springs, Md.

They are charged with conspiracy to interfere with communication lines leased and operated by the government. Authorities said more than 3,000 incidents of major damage involving telephone company property occurred during the 72-day strike.

Charles G. Perry, also indicted in the case, is under bond in Mississippi. He is president of the Communications Workers of America local in Jackson.

Louisiana Files Petition Asking For Air Route

A petition has been filed by the State of Louisiana with the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington to aid Monroe, Alexandria and Lake Charles in securing air routes to Houston, Tex., according to letters received here yesterday by Coon and the Chamber of Commerce from General T. B. Herndon, state aeronautics consultant.

Mayor Coon, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, recently had a special audience with General Herndon in Baton Rouge. He promised the full cooperation of his department.

General Herndon states in his letter that the State Board has filed a positive petition to intervene in the matter of C A B, docket No. 7707, which is an exemption application which was filed jointly by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe. This is the instrument by which the Twin-Cities hopes to get direct air service to Houston via Alexandria and Lake Charles.

The Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, as well as the Chambers of Commerce of Alexandria and Lake Charles are giving their full support to Southern airways.

It is thought that the enthusiastic support by General Herndon and his group will greatly aid the exemption application when it is formally reviewed by CAB.

Local authorities estimated that within the next ten days some decision will be reached.

One Application To Drill Filed Friday

An application to drill a Monroe Gas Rock test in the Monroe field, Union parish, was filed yesterday with the Monroe District office of the State of Louisiana Department of Conservation.

The proposed venture is the James A. Noe et al R. E. Harrel No. 1, located 660 feet west and south of the northeast corner of Sec. 27-21-2E.

40-50 KILLED

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 2 (AP)—A landslide has killed an estimated 40 to 50 persons and injured 100 in Santos, the world's biggest coffee port and a city of 200,000 population. A cloudburst loosened the earth on a hill.

Bill Authorizes Birth Certificates For Adopted Tots

JACKSON, Miss., March 2 (AP)—Adopted children would receive additional protection under a bill introduced in the Mississippi House of Representatives today.

Rep. Eugene Caldwell of Hinds County said his bill would permit adoptive parents of children born outside the United States to receive a birth certificate from the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Nothing on the certificate, he said, would indicate the child had been adopted but would state merely the child's name and date and place of birth and the names of the adoptive parents.
